SYDNEY, FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1916.

12 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

SUMMARY.

An intense massed attack was made by the Germans on Tuesday evening on the British new positions east of Bazentin village.

The fighting continued all night, and was particularly violent at Delville Wood.

After suffering the heaviest losses, the enemy succeeded in recapturing portion of the wood.

They also obtained a footing in Longueval.

Violent German attacks were made elsewhere, including three separate assaults on Waterlot Farm, east of Longueval.

The attacks completely broke down under the British fire.

No other event of importance is recorded on the Anglo-French front.

Mr Douglas Hair, on Wednesday night, stated that the British regained most of the ground lost at Longueval and Delville Wood.

They also dispersed a large force of the enemy massing for an attack on Waterlot Farm.

Two more German generals—Brockhaus and von Zitzewitz—holding commands on the western front, have been suspended.

A Berlin communique says: We recaptured the village of Longueval and Delville Wood after fierce fighting.

Our certain of fire, it is added, dispersed enemy attacks north of Ovillers, and on the southern border of Pozieres.

There is intense artillery activity in the Fleury sector, Verdun region.

A Berlin communique says: The enemy continued his fruitless efforts against the German lines at Terre Froide.

Conflicting accounts are to hand as to the internal condition of Germany.

Though the fear of defeat is growing, the authorities are trying to keep from the public the significance of the Somme offensive.

The general impression of politicians is that Prince von Bulow is about to supersede Dr von Bethmann-Hollweg as Chancellor.

While the authorities are seeking to hide the truth, a propaganda is in full swing to break bad news to the people.

A letter received in Berne from Germany says that a state of siege is beginning to be felt everywhere.

A veritable dictatorship and rule by the sabre reigns, and the tyranny of the police is beyond imagination.

Following upon the Liebknecht demonstrations, 600 well-known socialists have been imprisoned at Stuttgart.

German officers are urging Dutch business men to initiate a movement for the Queen of Holland to propose peace negotiations.

The Russian advance on the Lower Lipa, south-west of Lutsk, is regarded as the prelude to big operations.

In the extreme south of the Russian line General Letchitsky's cavalry have penetrated a day's march into Hungary.

They threaten the rear of the Austrians, in the south-west of Bukovina.

The Russian right flank in the Caucasus, in the region of Bathurt and further west, has advanced considerably.

An Italian communique says: Strong detachments attacked our line at Pasubio, in the Trentino. They were repulsed with loss.

An Austrian communique says: We repulsed the Italian attacks at the Borcola Pass, with sanguinary losses.

There is a remarkable revival of German submarine activity. Nearly a dozen vessels have been sunk during 24 hours.

The War Chest Button Day movement was mooted on at a meeting of the general committee yesterday. The total reached £40,180.

It is anticipated that there will be a handsome response to the appeal for subscriptions to the War Loan.

It is pointed out that any person, firm, or company may apply for any amount on the extended instalment basis.

In the Assembly yesterday Mr. G. R. W. M'Donald, the Independent member for Bingara, was sworn in.

The debate on the Address in Reply was resumed by Mr. James.

Mr. Cann made a statement in the Assembly in reference to the water shortage. He said the situation was serious.

Mr. Cann admitted that the Cordeaux dam would have been finished had it not been for the investigation of the Warragamba scheme.

The Attorney-General was asked if it was proposed to give hotelkeepers the right by legislation to sell soft drinks after 6 p.m.

Mr. Hall said the Government did not propose to do anything of the kind, because legislation was not necessary.

The attention of the Government was drawn to a statement that 1500 men would probably be dismissed from Cockatoo Dock.

The Government was asked to confer with the Federal authorities to expedite the importation of steel for building further warships.

The Chief Secretary states that he intends to insist on bank guarantees for the two bonds necessary for Chidley's release.

Messrs Scott and Lang, the pilot instructors for the aviation school at Richmond, arrived in Sydney yesterday.

They visited the aviation school, the official opening of which is to take place next month.

The Attorney-General has under consideration a proposal to extend the Fair Rents Court beyond the metropolitan area.

After being held up by the Federal authorities for over six months, the Innamincka has been granted permission to leave Australia.

The vessel was sold in January last by the Adelaide Steamship Company to Eastern buyers.

A German was fined £20 at Newcastle for failing to report himself to the police.

The western district is experiencing one of the best winters on record. The prospects for the coming spring are good.

The 186th casualty list records 163 deaths and 302 officers and men wounded.

The Chief Electoral Officer signed the certificate yesterday declaring that 6 o'clock had secured an absolute majority.

The proclamation declaring 6 o'clock the closing hour for liquor bars will probably be issued in a few days.

Of the votes recorded, 307,611 were by males and 271,495 by females, giving a majority of 36,116 male voters.

The Federal Ministry has decided upon an extension of functions in regard to price-fixing in connection with the war.

A commissioner is appointed in each State, and on his advice the board will recommend the prices of foodstuffs.

The railway unions in Victoria are agitating for wages boards for railway employees.

The Education Department has completed a new school to serve a by-section of the district of Middle Harbour.

The Aurora is not wanted to procede to Elephant Island, as arrangements have been made to send the Discovery from England.

The mining unions and federations throughout Australia stopped work yesterday to deal with the eight-hour question.

At the annual meeting of the Australasian Trained Nurses' Association, it was stated that 700 members were engaged in military work.

Enginedrivers and firemen at the Victorian State coal mine have struck work for higher wages.

The London Stock Markets are subdued owing to uncertainty regarding the bank rate.

They are less depressed, however, as money conditions in New York are easier.

At the London wool sales an average selection of merinos and fine crossbreds was offered, and prices were maintained.

At the Homebush sales the values of sheep were unaltered. Lambs were firm. Cattle were 10/ to 15/ per head lower.'

Business was more active on the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday, and values were intensified to harden.

The Edna May group of mines commanded attention, but all other stocks were practically neglected.

Forecast.—Showers on the central and south-west slopes and near the Murray; otherwise fine and colder generally, some snow on south-ern highlands.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE WINE INDUSTRY.

The agitation to provide some exemption in regard to light wines under the 6 o'clock closing provisions is entitled to careful consideration. In an interview, published in these columns yesterday, with the president of the Wine-growers' Association, very solid reasons were given in support of an exemption to allow of such wines being used at meals on licensed premises. In South Australia, the pioneer of the 6 o'clock movement, a provision of this sort was made, the exemption being extended until 8 o'clock, in so far as light wines were concerned. Favoured treatment in regard to light wines is provided in other countries, where special steps have been taken to control the liquor trade in order to meet the exigencies of war, and it is stated that the South Australian example will be followed in Victoria if 6 o'clock closing is carried. Action along the same lines in this State probably would not be opposed by any but the extreme minority. The great majority of people recognise that the wine industry is a valuable one, and also one capable of great and profitable expansion, therefore very weighty reasons would have to be put forward to block the slight amelioration of early closing that is requested, and which would help the industry materially without fostering the evils that the reform is designed to mitigate.

While the local trade, however, is of value to the industry, the solid and considerable expansion of the area under vines must depend upon the export trade, the prospects of which, according to competent authorities, are very bright. The ravages amongst the vineyards of Europe, and the general upheaval on the Continent, create a special opportunity for the expansion of the Australian wine export trade. For that reason a bill now before Parliament to amend the Wine Adulteration Act should receive prompt attention. The present Act allows sugar to be used in the making of our wines, a provision, we are informed, which does not exist in any other country. As a result English wine importers will not work under the local Act, but insist that wine from this State must conform to the Victorian Act. Printed forms have to be supplied to that effect. This is a very galling position to place our exporters in, and apparently one that is quite unnecessary. It might easily hinder trade, and a large export business has sprung up here. If the Act is amended as proposed, wine could be shipped under the local Act, which would then be in line with Victoria, as the Act in that State does not allow sugar to be used. From what we can learn, it is not desirable that the use of sugar should be allowed, as it is not only unnecessary, but leaves the way open to abuse, as people add it to natural wines to make sweet wines of them, and also add it to acid wines to hide the acetic acid, which is most unwholesome. It certainly would appear advisable that the amending bill be passed without needless delay.

THE INNER WEST.

ENJOYING GOOD SEASON.

The western district is experiencing one of the best winters on record, which is full of good prospects for the coming spring. So bountiful has been the rainfall in places that fears are entertained of rust appearing, but so far little has been heard of it. The change in the country from the dry weather experience in the late autumn months is remarkable. The pity of it is there are so few stock to eat down the feed. The mild weather and the absence of frosts have all helped to brighten the outlook. From the mountains to Bourke and beyond the country presents a green sward. A good lambing should have been experienced, and, although figures are not available, the percentage should be very high. The prospects for shearing are good.

It is not likely that the area under wheat will equal last year's. This is indicated by many of the paddocks which carried a crop last year that have not been even fallowed. High prices for sheep have caused men with fairly large areas to turn their attention to grazing. Although prices have been high, it has been on the big deals made for the purposes of stocking up with a view of big prices later on. The farmer has lost confidence to some extent, if he ever possessed it, with regard to the handling of the last year's crop. Apart from this, however, the season promises to be a great one, and the wheat field should be as good as last season if favourable weather continues.

The wheat belt is extending, and at Coonamble the experiments farm is demonstrating the value of the land for growing crops for hay, and this year is no exception, the crops being well advanced. The crops at the Nyngan farm are also looking well, while the thousands of acres under crop on the Woodlands wheat area augur well for results. It is likely that other farmers in the vicinity of Tottenham will do well with their wheat this year. The opening of the railway from Tullamore to Tottenham will afford further facilities for settlement in this particular part of the State.

UNDERGROUND WATER.

Mr. E. S. Twigg, Cowra, writes: Seven years ago water was as scarce as gold at the east side of Armatree towards the Warrumbungle Mountains. Then it was found anywhere by sinking into the ground to a depth of 120ft to 200ft. After tapping the water it rose to within about 90ft of the surface. During the past two years it has been found that by going still deeper, say, to 270ft, the water rose to within 20ft of the surface. Last week I had a bore put down at Armatree to 440ft, and the water is now running over the top at the rate of 120 gallons an hour. The water of a bore at Cowra sunk to a depth of 200ft rises to within 130ft of the surface. Will time prove that all ground west of the Blue Mountains to South Australia and Queensland is supplied with an underground sea of water?

FOWL FEED.

"Leghorn" writes:—When the Government entered into the business of produce merchants they said they were going to befriend the poultry farmers, and assist in promoting that somewhat important industry, and bring down the prices of food to a level that would enable the poultry farmers to make a reasonable profit. Instead of this, they have kept up and fixed the prices at such a high rate as to make it impossible for small breeders to make a profit out of their poultry. They have now raised the price of pollard—for what reason now one knows—being £5 10s per ton, and the retail price 1/3d, which is prohibitive to the small breeders. In addition to this, the Federal Government have purchased a number of vessels for the purpose of shipping wheat to England. Why should they go to all this trouble and expense to send wheat out of the country when we Australians want it? Why not keep the wheat in the country, and let the poultry farmers have it at a reasonable rate? They could start hundreds of our returned soldiers on the land as poultry farmers, and give them wheat at a low rate, and they could make a fair living.

SOLDIERS AND POULTRY FARMING.

"R. H. C." writes:—As a good deal is being done by way of settling returned soldiers on the land, and especially at poultry farming, I would like to correct through your columns an error of thought by those who say poultry farming can only be profitably carried on within an easy distance—five to ten miles—of a big city. In the first place, to be near a city means high-priced land or high rent, high taxes, having to buy both wood and water at high rates, paying about the same price for poultry food as in the country, and yet getting no more for the eggs or poultry to be sold. Someone may ask, what about freight? That is much less than many suburban poultry farmers pay for horse feed to drive their produce to the city market. Then, in the country, timber for building fowlhouses, etc., is cheaper, if not obtainable free in the bush around. Take Gosford as an example. Poultry, eggs, and other farm produce are carried at half ordinary rates, which means is for 36 dozen eggs to Sydney, or about is 3d per cwt. prepaid. Here sawmills supply second-quality timber for building purposes at very low rates; poultry food costs the same delivered at stores as it does in Sussex-street; firewood and water are free; rates are about half suburban rates; land by the acre is the same price as by the foot in the suburbs. There is also the advantage of three markets—Sydney and Newcastle, each 50 miles away, and a good local market, where weekly sales are attended by thousands of tourists from around Brisbane Water, etc., who will always pay good prices for poultry, eggs, etc., direct from the farm. Cheap steamer freight triweekly to Sydney is also available, and local slaughterhouses supply blood, etc., for poultry feeding free. It is, therefore, much more advantageous to carry on poultry farming here than in the suburbs of Sydney. Eggs or poultry from here realise the same prices in Sydney salerooms as best suburban. Now, as there is plenty of similar land available in this district for either poultry farming, market gardening—free from frost—or general farming purposes, the Government would do well to take the matter into its earnest consideration when attempting to place returned soldiers on the land.

SOUTH COAST AGRICULTURAL UNION.

WOLLONGONG.—A meeting of the South Coast Agricultural Union was held at the Council-chambers, Wollongong, on Tuesday last, Mr. E. H. Figtree presiding. Delegates were present from Milton, Nowra, Kangaroo Valley, Berry, Kiama, and Wollongong. The balance-sheet in connection with the staging of the district exhibits at the Royal Show was read by the secretary. The income in connection with the exhibit totalled £494 9s 6d, and the expenditure came to £238 19s 9d, leaving a credit balance of £255 9s 9d. The report and balance-sheet were considered satisfactory, and it was decided to vote the following honorariums:—To the secretary, Mr. A. Beatson, £20; manager, Mr. East, £30; sub-manager, Mr. Brooks, £20.

A notice of motion given by the Kangaroo Valley Association to the effect that during the war all shows be suspended, and that instead demonstrations be held to raise funds for patriotic purposes was discussed at length. The delegates from Kangaroo Valley (Messrs. Cullen and Nelson) pointed out that last year their association adopted the course suggested, and succeeded in raising £600, which was placed to the credit of a fund to be used for the purpose of assisting any returned local wounded soldiers that might be in need of assistance. Several delegates suggested that the shows could still be held, and any profits arising therefrom voted to any of the patriotic funds. The motion was negatived.

SHEARING RATES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The following circular was issued recently by the secretary of the Pastoralists' Union of Southern Riverina:—

"You will not doubt have seen in the press certain statements made from time to time regarding possible shearing troubles in New South Wales. No executive, in spite of these rumours, do not anticipate any serious trouble in respect to the forthcoming shearing in Riverina, but in case of trouble arising, I would direct your attention to a paragraph in my circular of May 8, dealing with the matter, it reads as follows: 'The A.W.U. has published in the "Worker" of April 13 a statement that the policy of the union is to abide by the Federal Arbitration Court award during its currency, and to submit new claims, covering all pastoral industry employees, to the Court upon the expiration of the award. If this policy is carried out the demands respecting shearing labour may be formally made, but not insisted upon, so as to provide evidence for the Court of dissatisfaction with the present rates.' The statement made by the A.W.U. to abide by the existing award during its currency has since been reiterated in the "Worker," and they recommend their members to loyally abide by it. Therefore, should a formal demand be made by the men for increased rates, my executive strongly recommend you to refuse the same, and such action is carried out loyally by all members of this union, my executive believe it will be successful in stopping further trouble.'"

BREWARRINA, Thursday.

Gingie (Walgett) and Mookulta (Bourke) refused to start under the award rates. Beconry station is cutting out. Boorooma is advertised to commence shearing on Monday.

MURRUMBIDGEE IRRIGATION AREA.

LEETON, Thursday.

At the half-yearly meeting of the Murrumbidgee Irrigation Settlers' Association, Mr. W. E. Cook was elected president, and Mr. E. J. Polkinghorne secretary. The meeting unanimously decided that, while the association sympathised with those settlers who had genuine claims for compensation, it deplored the wholesale slandering of the area by interested persons. The opinion was expressed by the association that the great bulk of land on the area under proper cultivation and irrigation, was capable of producing as fine fruit crops as any other land in the State. This week three experienced irrigationists from Mildura purchased farms on this area. The Leeton Progress Association has started an active campaign for the building of a railway from Yanco to Griffith, through the heart of the irrigation settlement.

SUBMARINES AND THE BLOCKADE.

The discussion in Germany on the reopening of a submarine campaign and on the effect of the blockade throws a good deal of light on the reasons which induced some at least of the German political leaders to consent to a pacific arrangement between their country and the United States. Their promise to abandon attacks on unarmed merchantmen without warning was accompanied by a condition or a suggestion that the President should thereupon begin to use his position to compel the British Government to abandon their blockade. Mr. Secretary Lansing very properly decided to welcome the promise and to ignore the suggestion. He insisted that Germany had no right to prescribe the conduct of the President towards Great Britain, and that in any case the United States was bound by an arbitration treaty to allow ample time for discussion. It was manifest from various polite references to President Wilson, in the Reichstag and in the German newspapers, that the reply was not satisfactory at the time, and it has not become so since. For some weeks the German people and their sympathisers in the United States were comforted by Herr von Jagow into the belief that President Wilson would begin another series of remonstrances with Great Britain for her interference with trade, and would follow the Notes with a threat either of a declaration of war or a stoppage of supplies. Their national psychology rendered it difficult for them to interpret the American Notes merely as a set of pious opinions, and they had some foundation for their hopes in the language used by the British Government. The Orders-in-Council, by which the blockade was instituted and the answers addressed to the United States, constantly justify the blockade as a reprisal for the submarine warfare of the enemy.

The German conduct certainly gave the Allies an excuse to ignore the provisions of the Declaration of London, which in a mutilated form, and without any necessity, they had professed to adopt at the beginning of the war. Herr von Jagow relied on the use of a technical term to argue that when submarine warfare had ceased the blockade should cease with it, citing in his support the treatment of prisoners in Germany after the segregation of officers of submarines in Great Britain. Fortunately for the Allies, the responsible British Ministers were not quite so legally minded as the clerks of the Foreign Office. They have preferred to examine the facts rather than to bind themselves by doctrines invented without reference to any circumstances analogous to those of to-day. The Germans have several times unsuccessfully attempted to destroy British trade by means forbidden by undertakings of their own. They scattered mines indiscriminately in August, 1914, and were met by the proclamation of part of the North Sea as a military area through which neutral vessels could travel in safety only under a naval escort. At the beginning of 1915 they began their campaign of ruthlessness, and were met by the Orders-in-Council and the ingenuity of naval officers. They abandoned it more than once ostensibly in deference to American protests; but really because means had been devised to meet it. The latest abandonment was variously explained in Germany as a desire to avoid war with America in the present, to secure an ally in a war against the blockade, or to preserve a market for trade after the war. No German had the assurance to suggest that the submarine campaign was given up voluntarily or through some access of repentance. No German could have thought after reviewing the practice of his own statesmen that Great Britain would surrender a weapon which she had used with success simply because his Government had tried and failed. The German does seem to think that to answer a military success by naval pressure is to violate a law of nature, but he cannot have hoped that a Power which has checked his imports and practically destroyed his export trade would renounce her practices unless some special pressure could be brought to bear upon her. The threats in the German newspapers may to some extent be discounted as part of the attack on the Chancellor, of which there have been signs for some days past. Herr von Bethmann Hollweg, in spite of his claims to ferocity, has often been attacked on much the same grounds as Lord Haldane in England. He is suspected of philosophy. He tried to safeguard his Eastern policy by friendship with Great Britain, and he has latterly opposed the advocates of annexation of Belgium and France. In the blockade he has always claimed the mild side, and the friends of the policy which reconciled Germany and the United States has failed, and the whole German cause is threatened, he is bound to find new and more vehement enemies on every side.

But the fact which has alarmed the German press, irrespective of party, is the success with which Great Britain has not only applied the blockade but extended it. A conference between representatives of France and England in Paris was followed by a stricter control of imports through neutral ports and a fuller supervision of the goods which neutrals are allowed to receive for their own use. The agreement was announced by the denunciation of the Declaration of London, of which one of the remaining clauses forbade the blockade of neutral countries. Its result was seen in the attempt of the German Government to get cotton through Switzerland, and the refusal of the Swiss to let them have it. Obviously, the British Government wasted a great opportunity by allowing the enemy to have cotton up to March, 1915. But they are now reaping the benefit of the tactful treatment of neutrals by Lord Grey and Lord Robert Cecil in face of incessant attacks and misrepresentations. Denmark, which has no reason to thank Great Britain for help in the past, is now refusing to trade with Germany, so is Sweden, and in spite of smuggling, there is an effective check on trade between Germany and Holland. The neutral States bordering on Germany had to choose between actively siding with Germany and submitting to have their trade regulated by a foreign Power. Their decision is a proof both of the unimpaired efficiency of the blockade and of their confidence in the fairness of the British Government. Unquestionably the blockade is now felt with increasing severity throughout Germany. No reasonable critic thinks that Germany will be starved into submission. The army will be well served, and the civilian population will be in luxury compared with what their fathers compelled the citizens of Paris and of Strassburg to endure in 1870-71. But the discontent aroused in Germany by the failure of the Emperor to conclude a peace will be intensified by discomfort, hunger, and poverty, and by the knowledge that with all the high prices in England, there is no scarcity of food or of money.

SABOTAGE.

Under this heading, with a wooden shoe as its sign and explanation, the I.W.W. proposes to revolutionise society. In France the word arose because the wooden shoe became a weapon of offence and was thrust into machinery when the worker became anarchist. Here in New South Wales we are having a taste of the same thing in a doctrine which embraces everything that would break up the foundations. Elsewhere in this issue is given chapter and verse. All through this part of Australia the gospel of sabotage is being preached and our own Railway Commissioners have found their workshops and station buildings used to carry on the incitement to revolution. The present structure of society is to be upset, so that the man in moleskins is to become boss. Organisation is declared to be power for this purpose as for everything else; and the man with the long handled shovel, if he will only combine, is to rule the State. There is no question of political power in this. The politician and Parliament are as much anathema as the capitalist and the clergyman. Spoliation, naked and unashamed, is the motto for the day; and it is being written up so that he who runs may read. War is turning all men's thoughts to the big things of life, but the I.W.W. is simply making this the opportunity for its attack upon society. Not only is it preaching the subversal of order and the defiance of law, but it glories in disloyalty—because the man who listens and obeys must be a dull-witted traitor to the Commonwealth and the Empire. It would be treachery at any time to attack the foundations of our civilisation; but to add internal strife to external chaos is to be doubly devilish. This is the element in our industrial life to-day which threatens to become prominent in the Labour movement. That it has affected the mass of our workers we refuse to believe; but nobody knows better than moderate men in the Labour party how serious is the outlook with the present propaganda of anarchy.

This doctrine of sabotage is offered under the guise of relief and reform. "Slow down" is the text from which is preached a sermon to show how reasonable it is to do less—very much less—than a man's best. "Distribute the work" and help your neighbour" is the specious conclusion, until the real end is reached in the lying remainder that everything belongs of right to the worker. This is socialism come to its legitimate flower, and revolution must be its fruit. Were it simply political the failure of it all would work a cure in this epoch as it has done so often before; but the mischief is like a rodent ulcer. The man who deliberately slows down, who puts sand into the bearings of the business or industrial machine with which he is concerned, and who in fact makes all machinery the object of attack and obloquy—this man becomes a rebel and an outcast in the very process. His character deteriorates. Work to him is no longer a means of self-expression in the higher sense, but is turned into dynamite to be used against his fellows. The cathedrals of Christendom could never have been erected under conditions of ca' canny. They were necessarily left in large measure to the conscience of the workmen, so that the master mason and the master carpenter became the right and left hand of the architect. They and their assistants interpreted his thought and anticipated his wish and will. They loved their work and wrought the best they knew; and we know how they set their mark upon Europe. Nowadays the workman is to mock at all the calls of conscience; and his work is to be a means of attack upon religion, upon citizenship, and upon everything that makes life worth living. This is sabotage indeed. Is it not a matter for citizens of every class and party to join hands upon? Dare the moderate men of the Labour party sit still while this poison is injected daily into its veins, infecting the rising generation, and sapping the strength of maturer working men and women throughout the State? The war has made one bond, but surely this creates another; and because the war demands our united enterprise and endeavour the viper in our bosom must be killed or it will strike just when we can least guard against it.

WATER FAMINE.

Yesterday in Parliament the Acting Premier admitted that the condition of Sydney's water supply was "very serious." It is so serious that nothing the Government can now do will very much help the metropolis, falling a good fall of rain within the next 200 days. The position is made more exasperating by Mr. Cann's admission that the Cordeaux Dam would now be practically completed had it not been for the investigation of the Warragamba scheme. So orders have been given at last and without authority to prepare for the Cordeaux Dam. Meanwhile, however, the apprehensive ratepayer would like to know why the Government has awakened so late. If the Board of Water Supply really has tried to wake it up why should the appeal have been dismissed with what may perhaps be called a Ministerial snore? But possibly Mr. Cann will insist that the board has not called loud enough. The responsibility of providing a sufficient and efficient water supply is upon that body, and it was constituted for the purpose of preparing against such an emergency as the present. To which the board will probably reply that it has never ceased to call. Moreover, it has always been kept on short commons of money. Urgent head works have been deferred while reticulation has been extended; but the consequent increase in revenue has only meant that larger balances have been thrown into the consolidated revenue. The city has been taxed in this way for the benefit of the country, and now it is in danger of a water famine. Could anything be more farcical in the way of government? No doubt the board can make out a case, and yet one realises what a miserable make-believe it must appear in the eyes of irate residents in a metropolis growing so fast that even the most settled official mind cannot help but perceive the fact. It is quite true that every extension of the mains has meant further trouble, but the board has still gone on linking in the new suburbs and steadily increasing the drain upon its lessening supply. Why did it not face the facts and appeal to the public? Because it is practically a creature of the Government, is the bald answer. Its head can be transferred or disciplined if he is independent or strong as was Mr. Keele when he insisted upon an increased height to the wall of the Cataract Dam. But the Government will again deny responsibility. It must be advised, and so forth. We have got used to the stupid farce—with always the burden of blame shifted from one back to the other as the public has grown angry. Now, however, there is going to be real trouble. Sydney deprived of water, or short of it, is likely to make Ministers and board members sorry they ever turned metropolitan interests into a sort of football. Summer will call the country to the city, and business as well as health and comfort will be at stake in this very serious emergency. If the worst happens Rachel robbed of her children will be a circumstance beside the cry of the mothers and heads of families afraid of epidemics and threatened with the most serious complications.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, accompanied by the Governor of South Australia (Sir Henry Galway), left Adelaide on Wednesday for Mannum, where they inspected the reclaimed areas on the river Murray.

The Governor of New South Wales and Miss Strickland, attended by Captain Bolton, A.D.C., will, on arrival in Melbourne from Adelaide, be the guests of the Governor and Lady Stanley at the State Government House till Friday, when the journey to Sydney will be resumed.

Lady Edeline Strickland presided at a meeting of the Woollahra branch of the Red Cross at Government House yesterday afternoon, and afterwards entertained the members to tea.

Mr. W. A. Holman, the State Premier, is expected to return to Sydney from his trip to Fiji at the end of next week.

Brigadier-General Pethbridge, administrator of late German New Guinea, is a passenger by the steamer Morinda, which is due at Sydney from Rabaul on Wednesday next.

Colonel Kenneth Mackay, M.L.C., of Wallsendbeen, owing to illness, was unable to be present at the opening of the State Parliament or to attend to his Parliamentary duties.

Mr. J. Mathews, M.P., chairman of the Commonwealth committee on invalidity and mortality, left last evening on his return to Melbourne.

Mr Edmund Jowett, president of the British Immigration League, was a passenger by the express from Melbourne yesterday.

Mr. H. Hardacre, Queensland Minister for Education, who has been on a visit to Adelaide and Melbourne, is expected to arrive in Sydney to-day.

Surgeon-General Sir W. C. Williams and Colonel Wallack are passengers by the R.M.S. Orontes, due next week. Colonel Wallack, who went to Egypt on transport duty, contracted enteric fever there.

Mr. Kamiya, manager at Kobe of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha steamship line, Mr. Ukita, late Japanese Consul at Batavia, and Mr. Higasiyima, who are investigating trade possibilities in Australasia, will leave on a visit to New Zealand by the Manuka next Thursday.

Alderman Clarence Bridge, of the City Council, will leave by the Tango Maru to-day on a visit to Brisbane.

Mr. R. W. Constable, secretary of the Commonwealth Advisory Council of Science and Industry, arrived from Melbourne yesterday.

Dr. Harry Griffiths, who has been acting as principal medical officer at the military camp at Langwarrin, in Victoria, and who is taking up similar duties in Brisbane, arrived from Melbourne yesterday, en route to Queensland.

Mr. C. Alma Baker, who organised the Malayan Air Squadron Fund, and who is making a similar appeal in Australia, returned to Sydney from a visit to Melbourne yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Baker. After a stay of about a week here he will leave for Queensland, and then for New Zealand, returning to his home at Batu Gajah, Perak, in the Federated Malay States, in December.

Mr. H. S. Leonard, of Bankok, who is Government Veterinary Surgeon in Siam, is on a visit to Sydney.

Sergeant W. T. Donald, Town Clerk at Hurstville for the past four years, who enlisted recently, and is shortly leaving for the front, was entertained by a large number of friends on Monday evening and presented with a pair of field glasses, a case of pipes, and other souvenirs.

On the recommendation of Sir Newton Moore, Mr. M. L. Moss, K.C., for years a prominent member of the State Legislative Council, who is now practising at the English Bar, has been appointed Acting Agent-General for Western Australia during Sir Newton Moore's absence on military duty.

ENGLISH MAILS.

The English mail by the R.M.S. Kaisar-i-Hind is expected to arrive in Sydney to-day, in time for the afternoon delivery.

"GO SLOW."

AND BE QUICK ABOUT IT.

THE NEW PHILOSOPHY.

The slogan of the I.W.W.: Dungarees and long-handled shovels for all parasites. Work for capitalists, parsons, politicians, landlords, and other undesirables.

This is not our statement. It is the I.W.W.'s own. At all events, it has on the bottom "I.W.W. Print, 330 Castlereagh-street, Sydney."

It is just a little bit of paper, two inches by two, gummed at the back; and all you have to do, if you are sounding the slogan of the I.W.W., is to lick the paper and paste it on the wall. Lots of these pieces of paper got pasted on the tramcars, on the railway and tramway workshops, and on other workshops throughout Australia. A correspondent—the head of a printing firm with headquarters in Melbourne—sends us a couple of other labels of the same size, bearing the imprint "I.W.W., Print., Castlereagh-street, Sydney," which were pasted on his traveller's sample-room door in Rockhampton. One runs: "Slow down on the job." The other has the words: "Sabotage, the Boss's Nightmare." And on top of the word "sabotage" is a representation of a wooden shoe. "This is what the 'Industrial Workers of the World' preach," adds our correspondent. "There certainly is a contradiction in terms in the words 'industrial' and 'Slow down.'"

A certain class of workers in France used to put a sabot, or wooden shoe, in the machinery in order to bring about a breakdown. If you consult a French dictionary you will find that the word "saboter" means to do work quickly but slovenly. Hence the word "sabotage." Hence also the I.W.W. trade mark.

Not very long ago someone went and had a look at the east-west railway, and wrote: "The men decide what a day's work shall be, and if that amount has been done by 2 o'clock they knock off for the day." That is sabotage. Be quick; be slovenly. Do slow work, do no work.

In the Legislative Assembly on Wednesday, Mr. Fitzpatrick called attention to the report of a recent speech made at Broken Hill, in which it was stated that the "go slow" policy and sabotage generally of an extreme type had been openly advocated. The Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, said that he was having inquiries made, but "they could not believe all that they read in the papers."

But we can believe the I.W.W.'s own print, and we can well believe the mischief it is doing; and will continue to do if the pernicious doctrine is not repudiated by the genuine Trades unionists. It is permeating not only our Government workshops, but private establishments as well.

Here are a few more gems:—"A six-hour day will create 25 per cent. more jobs. That will mean less unemployed, more wages, and a decent life. It means leisure. That's what the I.W.W. is out for." They are after leisure, with a vengeance, judging by another scrap of paper: "The workers of Australia will own Australia when they organise to take it. Organisation is Power. Power is the way to Freedom." Again: "The I.W.W. stands for a shorter work day, bigger wages, dungarees for the Boss and Work for the politician." "Fast workers die young, and die poor. The Boss gets fat, oily and ugly, when you work hard. Slow down and share your work up with the Boss. Work keeps the boss moral. Slow work is moral." "If you are unemployed, it is because some bonehead is doing two men's work. Only fools and horses work hard." "Join the one big union. Slaves! Arise!"

When we find I.W.W. ideals, if ideals they can be called, openly advocated by some members of the Railway and Tramway Union, and the position becomes serious. Mr. Hall says that we cannot believe all that we read in the papers, and it is sincerely to be hoped that he is right, so far as the words credited to one union member at least, as reported in the "Railway and Tramway Record" of January 8 last, are concerned. "The machine will become so effective," he said, "that the department will see there is something behind it. Those methods will come . . . I have a body of men outside the service prepared to step in and show that their method of sabotage is the only weapon of the workers to-day." It is pleasing to turn to the remarks of another member, the said: "For the moment I thought I must have got into the wrong meeting, and that he was addressing a meeting of the I.W.W. Remarks are right out of date. If we need organisation with regard to a strike, we certainly need a great deal more organisation before we can resort to his ideas."

It is no less pleasing to know that these I.W.W. ideas are condemned by the great majority of the Labour members of Parliament, and that Mr Hoyle, the Minister for Railways, has officially commended the stand taken by the Commissioners on the matter.

COMMISSIONER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. James Fraser, the Deputy-Chief Commissioner, made the following statement to a representative of the "Herald" yesterday:—"So far as the Railway and Tramway men are concerned, a large percentage of them are working as well as they ever did, but there are some sections undoubtedly where there is a tendency to reduce the output per individual per day. It is obvious from an analysis of our weekly figures that we don't get the return per diem per man that we did seven or eight years ago. During the last 18 months particularly we have been making strenuous efforts to prevent any further falling-off in the production per individual employed, and we have succeeded to some extent; but there is room for much further improvement, and special efforts must necessarily be made. The controlling individuals of the various unions have been spoken to by me over and over again with regard to slow work, and the unions' officials themselves regard slow work as a most reprehensible practice. They hold the view that there is not slow work to the extent that the department believes. But our own figures indicate quite clearly that the output per man employed in either a worker or not as willing a worker on the whole as he was some few years back. There is no doubt that some workers are less competent, and to that is due the fact that there has been a relatively larger increase in the staff than the business would otherwise warrant. We are making an effort to eliminate those who openly favour the 'slow' work movement. If the workers really understood what was in their best interests, no worker would advocate limited production per individual, because that means a reduced production, which is far more evenly distributed perhaps than in any other community in the world. We believe, and hope, that when the workers generally begin to think seriously about the position they will make an effort in the direction desired by this department—that is that each man employed shall give a reasonable and fair day's work for the high wages now generally paid."

Mr. Commissioner Milne has given his views on the subject on several occasions at Goulburn, at Newcastle, and at Perth.

PRIVATE EMPLOYERS.

Mr. William Brooks, president of the Employers' Federation, was also seen yesterday. "There is no doubt," he said, "that we have had illustrations in many industries of the general tendency to 'slow down' and limit output. I have had brought under my notice printed matter issued by the I.W.W., and of which the labels you refer to are a very good sample. Matter of this description and posters are being used throughout the Commonwealth for the specific purpose of inducing workmen to slow down, under the fallacious idea that the less work that is done the better off the working classes will be. It only needs a superficial knowledge of the inevitable working of cause and effect to see that limitation of output means increased cost of production, and consequently increased cost of living. And that reacts upon the workers more forcibly than on any other section of the community. One small manufacturer gave me figures showing that, although he paid in 1916 about £400 more in wages than in 1915, the value of the output of his factory decreased by about £700. This meant that as a result of his operations in 1916 the manufacturer could draw nothing from the business for himself. My own experience is that any effort on the part of the employers to increase their output by making the best possible use of the services of those in their employ is looked upon with more than suspicion by trades union officials, who have a holy horror of what they call 'speeding up.' I would not for one moment advocate that any worker should be asked to do more than a fair day's work, but I am satisfied that if all workers were imbued with the principle that they should return a fair day's work for a fair day's wage the productive wealth of this country in our secondary industries would be increased by many millions of pounds per annum. It is not unknown for a scale of work to be set down in an industry, and if a worker exceeds the prescribed amount he is liable to a fine. The building trade gives specific illustration of the tendency to slow down in some of its operations. It is known, for instance, that the number of bricks per day per man at the present time is anything from one-half downward of what it was a few years ago. The position is a very serious one indeed."

CATARACT DAM.

NO BENEFIT FROM RECENT RAINFALL.

As the result of the recent rainfall the Cataract Dam has not benefited appreciably. Over some parts of the catchment area up to 60 points of rain had been recorded, but owing to the extreme dryness of the ground very little of it was conserved, as it soaked into the soil as soon as it fell.

The watersned which supplies the dam with water has been uniformly dry for nearly 12 months. There are five principal recording stations on the area, and the average falls for the year ended December last have been considerably below the normal. Sherbrooke, with an average yearly fall of 57.10in, had but 35.08in; Madden's Plain, with 54.61in, had only 40.81in; Letterbox, at which the average is 53.62in, received but 41.61; Mount Pleasant's average of 55.63in was reduced to 41.15; while at Cataract Dam, where 35.55in is the average, the rainfall recorded was only 22.01in.

The catchment area contains 50 square miles of country, and an average fall of one inch of rain over the whole of it would be equivalent to 14¼ million gallons for every square mile. It was explained by an official of the Water Supply and Sewerage Board yesterday that, even if that quantity were to fall now, nothing near the amount of water would find its way into the dam. A steady light rain would be soaked up by the land as soon as it fell, and what was now needed to replenish the dam was nothing short of a heavy and long-continued fall. At the present time Cataract Dam is 33ft below its full holding capacity, while Prospect Reservoir, which is fed from Cataract, is 2.89ft below the top water level. The latter reservoir serves a population of 871,056 people, and for the year ended June last 14,328,000,000 gallons were consumed, the daily average, after allowing for evaporation, amounting to 40 gallons per head.

HUNGARY INVADED.

CARPATHIANS CROSSED

Violent and sustained attacks by the enemy upon the positions taken by the British north of the Somme have been repulsed.

The Germans recaptured Delville Wood and part of Longueval, but Sir Douglas Haig reports that both positions have already been partly recovered.

The French have made some progress near Estrees, south of the Somme.

It is reported that Russian cavalry have penetrated the Carpathians and are approaching an important Hungarian town Austrian official statements appear to confirm this.

An important artillery battle in the Riga sector is developing.

The Russians in the Caucasus continue their advance, and have taken more prisoners.

The Germans in East Africa, near the coast, have suffered a further reverse; and an important German port on Lake Victoria Nyanza has been seized by a British column.

BRITISH REPORTS.

POSITIONS REGAINED.

LONDON, July 20.

Reporting at noon on Wednesday, General Sir Douglas Haig says:—The German attack last night, of which the beginning has already been reported, was directed at our new positions east of Bazentin village. Very large German reinforcements were collected for this attack. After intense artillery fire the first assault was delivered in dense masses at 5.30 in the afternoon. The fighting continued all night long, and was particularly violent at Delville Wood. After suffering the heaviest losses the enemy succeeded in recapturing portion of the wood. They also obtained a footing in the northern outskirts of Longueval. The struggle continues.

Violent German attacks made elsewhere, including three separate assaults on Waterlot Farm, completely broke down under our fire.

There was no event of importance on the rest of the front.

Sir Douglas Haig, in a report on Wednesday night, stated: We regained most of the ground lost at Longueval and Delville Wood, and dispersed a large force of the enemy massing for an attack on Waterlot Farm, from the direction of Guillemont.

SOUTH OF THE SOMME.

A Paris communique, issued on Wednesday night, stated—A small operation enabled us to capture some trenches and 60 prisoners south of Estrees.

GENERALS SUSPENDED.

A report from Berne states that two more German Generals—Brockhaus and von Zitzewitz—holding commands on the western front, have been suspended.

GERMAN CLAIMS.

A Berlin communique states—We recaptured the village of Longueval and Delville Wood last night after fierce fighting by the Magdeburg 26th Infantry Regiment. In addition to sanguinary losses by the English, 8 officers and 280 men were made prisoners. They left a considerable number of machine guns.

Our curtain of fire dispersed enemy attacks north of Ovillers and on the southern border of Poziers. They have not had the slightest success anywhere.

French local attacks north of Barleux and near Belloy, failed.

BIACHES FORT.

CAPTURED BY A RUSE.

A lucky ruse on the part of the French captured Biaches Fort on the 9th instant. So well concealed and protected was the fort that a bombardment failed to destroy the works. A German company held out for 24 hours. Then a sub-lieutenant, two non-coms., and five men found a vulnerable spot and entered the fort unseen. The officer and a non-com. rushed forward, throwing grenades and shouting "charge with bayonets." Then 113 Germans came out from their shelters without resistance. The other Frenchmen sprang forward with great fury and utterly deceived the enemy, who flung down their arms and Biaches Fort was captured without the loss of a Frenchman.

SINEWS OF WAR.

LONDON, July 19.

Mr. Asquith will ask Parliament for a credit vote of £500,000,000 next week.

OTHER FRONTS.

BOMBARDMENT AT VERDUN.

A French communique issued at noon on Wednesday says:—The night was calm on all fronts.

There is intense artillery activity in the Fleury sector (north of Verdun).

A German aeroplane was brought down east of Soissons and the occupants taken prisoners.

GERMAN CLAIMS.

A Berlin communique states:—The enemy continued his fruitless efforts against the German lines at Froide Terre, on the right bank of the Meuse.

ATTACKS REPULSED.

LONDON, July 19.

An Italian communique states:—Strong detachments attacked our line at Pasubio, near the western end of the Trentino front. They were repulsed with loss.

We renewed our attacks at Corno del Costin and captured a new position on the rocky slopes of the mountain.

ENEMY CLAIMS.

An Austrian communique says:—We repulsed three Italian attacks at the Borcola Pass (north of Pasubio), with sanguinary losses.

FIGHTING IN TRIPOLI.

A Turkish communique says:—Mirv Bey, commanding the Turkish volunteers in Tripoli, defeated the Italians near Misrata (on the coast, 118 miles east of the town of Tripoli), capturing 200 officers, 9000 men, and 24 guns.

GERMANY.

INTERNAL CONDITIONS.

THE FOOD PROBLEM.

SUBMARINE POSTAL SERVICE.

AMSTERDAM, July 19.

Conflicting accounts are to hand of the internal condition of Germany. Though the fear of defeat is growing the authorities are making an intense effort to prevent the public from understanding the significance of the Somme offensive. The public are hypnotised by means of lying messages from newspapers in neutral countries, which are in German pay.

The general impression of politicians is that Prince von Bulow is about to supersede Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg as Imperial Chancellor. The Junkers and National Liberals, representing the great industrialists are opposed to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, believing that he is opposed to their plans of conquest.

The food problem continues acute. Herr von Batocks, the Director of Foods, has failed to persuade the Southern States to permit the exportation of foods in order to secure equal distribution. The Prussian authorities strongly resent the action of the Southern States.

Owing to the failure of kitchens on wheels, the problem of communal feeding in Berlin is being solved by the erection of huge public dining halls, with common dining rooms and a central kitchen. The first kitchen has 63 boilers, holding 30,000 litres of food. Hundreds of women are employed in preparing meals, using electrical potato cutting machines, gas stoves, and other labour-saving appliances. Specially constructed motor cars carry the food to the various distribution depots.

The following is a week's bill of fare:—Monday, rice and potatoes; Tuesday, meat; Wednesday, beans and fat; Thursday, meat and macaroni; Friday, beans and potatoes; Saturday, cabbages and potatoes; Sunday, minced meat and potatoes.

A portion equal to a litre (about 1¾ pint) is sold for 4d, and 250,000 litres are sold daily.

In Berlin the better class of people are willing to rub shoulders with the humblest in the common dining halls.

The Imperial postal authorities are arranging for a submarine postal service between Germany and the United States; the charges will be high. The parcels post will not be attempted for the present.

While the authorities are seeking to hide the truth of the Anglo-French and Russian successes, an ingenious propaganda is in full swing gradually to break bad news to the people. One method is the posting of telegrams in shop windows announcing that Japan is supplying Russia with hundreds of guns and millions of shells. Officers are also calling meetings of their men explaining that Britain's appearance on the scene, with armies of great size, amazing efficiency and bravery, which could never have been foreseen, adds fresh peril to the German armies. Many German officers are urging Dutch business men to initiate a movement, whereby the Queen of Holland would be able to propose peace negotiations.

A Berne message says that a letter from Germany declares that the state of siege is beginning to be felt everywhere. There is a veritable dictatorship or rule by the sabre. The tyranny of the police is beyond imagination. They are following up the demonstrations against the punishment of Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, and 600 well-known Socialists have been imprisoned at Stuttgart.

WAR PROBLEMS.

REGULATION OF PRICES.

TRADE UNIONS' DEMANDS.

LONDON, July 19.

Replying to a deputation from the Trade Unions' Congress, regarding the regulations of prices of food and fuel, the increase of old-age pensions, and the conscription of wealth, Mr. Asquith said the Congress had proposed the fixing of freights, rates, the commandeering of home crops, and the fixing of standard prices of food in various areas. It was true the shipping companies were making large profits, but much of such profits were taken under the Excess Profits Tax, and the interests of the country demanded that considerable reserves should be set aside to provide for new tonnage after the war. Germany had tried fixing maximum prices, but he doubted whether they had been successful. He was not disposed to attempt it in the United Kingdom.

In regard to the conscription of riches, the Income Tax was so high that he did not think any country in the world was exacting equal contributions from the well-to-do.

EAST FRONT.

HUNGARY INVADED.

CAVALRY CROSS MOUNTAINS.

ENEMY'S ANXIETY.

LONDON, July 20.

A Russian communique, issued on Wednesday night, says: Enemy aeroplanes bombed Reval (a fortified port on the south side of the Gulf of Finland).

An artillery battle is developing on the Riga front.

Our infantry advanced towards the defiles in the mountainous region about the rivers of Tchernysi, Bely, and Czeremosz, south-west of Kuty (south of Bukovina).

An unofficial message from Petrograd states that General Lechitsky's cavalry which has crossed the Carpathians is now on the main road from Kirlibaba Pass, between Bukovina and Hungary, towards Marmaros Sziget, and threatening General Pflanzer's communications.

The fact is arousing intense anxiety in Hungary.

A Vienna message received in Amsterdam states that telegraphic communication with Marmaros Sziget, in Hungary, has been suspended. A large portion of the village of Gurah Humora (east of Kimpolung, in Southern Bukovina), in the same region, has been destroyed by fire, 500 houses being burned.

[Marmaros Sziget, a town of 15,000 people, is the capital of a Hungarian county, and lies near the Carpathians, 89 miles north by east of Klausenberg.]

SUCCESS ON LIPA.

An unofficial message from Petrograd says:—In the fight on the Lipa the Russians forced the line at 3 a.m. on the 16th, wading under machine-gun and rifle fire through water and marsh, above their waists and often up to the armpits. The engineers laboured under heavy shellfire to construct a bridge to enable the cavalry and guns to cross in pursuit of the enemy.

The Austrian end of the bridge was a horrible place, being congested with dead and dying, and horribly wounded men. Many Austrians had apparently been wounded by their own guns while attempting to prevent the bridging of the stream. The Austrians now simply refuse to fight after an initial resistance, and prefer to surrender en bloc rather than risk being cut to pieces on their retreat.

ENEMY'S REPORTS.

A German communique states:—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's troops, south and south-west of Riga, broke down repeated Russian attacks with extraordinarily high losses. There is lively artillery activity on the Stokhod. Elsewhere, there were no incidents.

An Austrian communique says:—South-west of Delatyn we drove out Russian detachments, which penetrated the western bank of the Pruth across the river, and captured 300 prisoners.

SUBMARINES.

GERMAN ACTIVITY.

GREATER RUTHLESSNESS.

LONDON, July 20.

There is a remarkable recrudescence of German submarine activity. Nearly a dozen vessels have been sunk during the past twenty-four hours.

Germany's change of submarine policy was not announced, but some light is thrown on the matter by the latest German newspapers. The "Morning Post's" Berne correspondent draws attention to a semi-official article in the "Lokal Anzeiger," which is calculated to cheer up advocates of former ruthless methods. The article discusses the abrogation of the Declaration of London, and suggests that "England may use her power to force neutrals to adopt an unfriendly and, if possible, hostile attitude towards Austria and Germany. That will ultimately mean that all Austro-German frontiers would be closed. If such a situation arose, Germany would probably reconsider the cessation of submarine action, which was ordered out of consideration for the United States and other neutrals, with the object of preserving friendly feelings towards Germany.

"In the event of England succeeding in inducing neutrals to adopt an attitude of active or passive hostility towards Germany, one important reason for the decision for the cessation arrived at in the spring of 1916 would have ceased to exist."

The British press consider that, in view of the ruthless submarine tactics during the past few days, it is a reasonable deduction that Germany has decided that England is influencing neutrals definitely to favour the Allies.

Some critics are even prepared for greater ruthlessness, and declare that it is a short step from the seizure or sinking of neutrals' vessels to an invasion of surrounding neutral countries, particularly Denmark, with a view to commandeering supplies.

The "Lokal Anzeiger" hints that there is an important secret change concerning submarines, which will be of great advantage in the event of Germany being compelled to act ruthlessly, and adds: "The new decision will probably have to be made soon."

The "Kreuz Zeitung" qualifies this with an announcement that the decision must be made quickly, otherwise Germany will lose the best time of the year for submarine work.

The "Neueste Nachrichten" says:—"In the last Note to America, we reserved a free hand for a submarine mercantile war, in the event of America failing to induce England to alter a procedure which is an infringement of all international law governing neutrals' trade with Germany, but the time for the use of our free hand has not yet arrived."

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENTS

LONDON, July 19.

In the House of Commons to-night an amendment to the Soldiers' Settlement Bill—that 2000 acres of the 6000, which the Board of Agriculture proposes to acquire should be located in Wales—was carried against the Government by 51 votes to 46, amid ironical cries of "Resign."

HOME RULE BILL.

INTRODUCED NEXT WEEK.

LONDON, July 20.

Mr. Asquith will introduce the Home Rule Bill in the House of Commons next week.

CAUCASUS.

FURTHER ADVANCE.

RUSSIANS TAKE PRISONERS.

LONDON, July 20.

A Russian communique says:—Our right flank in the Caucasus region, from Jevizluk (south of Trebizond) to Baiburt, and further west, has advanced considerably, dislodging the enemy rearguard. We captured 85 Turkish officers, 1200 men, and a number of guns.

BRITISH POLITICS.

LIFE OF PARLIAMENT.

GENERAL ELECTION QUESTION

LONDON, July 19.

In the House of Commons this evening, Mr. Herbert Samuel (Home Secretary) moved that a registration committee for the preparation of the new electoral register, including the troops. He said the registration would cost £300,000 and necessitate the employment of 20,000 canvassers. He deprecated a general election in war time. It was not likely Germany would grant an armistice to enable the British troops to vote.

Sir Edward Carson protested against the opera bouffe manner in which Mr. Samuel had treated the matter—due to the fact that he thought he was conscious he was an indispensable Minister in an indispensable Government. Sir Edward Carson deprecated the belief that a general election was impossible in war time. In any case it would be a scandal not to revise the old register, whereby thousands of civilians were now disfranchised. The question of giving soldiers a vote had been solved in Australia and Canada. The proposed committee was a farce.

Mr. Winston Churchill described Mr. Samuel's speech as one long sneer.

Mr. Asquith, in view of the criticisms, withdrew the motion. He denied the Government intended to delegate to the committee the decision whether a general election would be desirable in September, when the present Parliament ends. He promised the Government would consider the matter, and if possible bring concrete proposals before the House. The matter was highly controversial, as it included the enfranchisement of soldiers and women, as well as other difficult problems.

FINANCE BILL.

The House of Lords has passed the Finance Bill.

OVERSEA VISITORS.

SENATOR MACDOUGALL BUSY.

LONDON, July 19.

Senator A. Macdougall, of New South Wales, who is one of the Parliamentary party visiting England, to-day addressed the Boilermakers' Conference in London, upon national and industrial organisation. In response to invitations he will also address the boilermakers at Newcastle, Liverpool, Glasgow, Southampton, and Belfast. He returns to Australia in August.

Mr. A. Fisher (Commonwealth High Commissioner), Brigadier-General Ryrie, and Senator M'Dougall are spending the week-end in Glasgow at the invitation of the Lord Provost.

SOLDIERS AND DRINK.

UNLICENSED RESTAURANTS.

A PUBLIC SCANDAL.

LONDON, July 19.

At the Westminster Police Court to-day a Frenchwoman, the keeper of a restaurant in Great Peter-street, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, and thereafter to deportation, for the unlicensed sale of liquor.

The prosecution said that drunkenness among soldiers was largely due to the so-called restaurants, which were not registered, selling sixpenny "alps" of whisky in cups at any hour. This place had been the resort of overseas soldiers for months. When Lord Athlumney, the Provost Marshal, accompanied by the police, entered the place, they found a number of soldiers helplessly drunk and overseas soldiers and some absentees in the company of women.

The prosecution said the police ought to have the power to sweep such places off the earth.

The magistrate said he was surprised there was no adequate punishment for such a serious offence. Such places were a scandal to a civilised country.

REMEDIES SUGGESTED.

Australians living in London have for long been aware of the conditions revealed in the Westminster Police Court. It is hoped that some arrangement will be made for removing the troops entirely from the slum quarter. It is admitted that it is impossible to remove the military headquarters from Horseferry-road, but in order to prevent the men on furlough from frequenting the locality a scheme has been drawn up for the payment of the men in camps, and thus not requiring their attendance at headquarters. The scheme has not yet been adopted.

Thousands of men are loitering in this most undesirable locality. The proposal for the establishment of a hostel in Great Peter-street would, if given effect to, necessitate the evil. It is hoped that subscribers to Australian war funds will not permit the diversion of the funds for this purpose; but instead will insist that the hostel be placed in a good locality, and removed from military control.

SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON.

Sir Douglas Mawson, who left Australia some three months ago to offer his services to the War Office, has been gazetted an Embarkation Staff Officer with the rank of Captain. He will be stationed in Liverpool.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

LONDON, July 20.

Colonel Victor Horsley, a surgeon, who was serving with the Army Medical Corps in Mesopotamia, has died from a heat stroke.

Captain John Field, of the Engineers, a son of a former Sydney barrister, has been killed in France.

MESOPOTAMIA.

TURKISH CLAIMS.

LONDON, July 20.

A Turkish communique states: The operations on the Persian frontier, near Mesopotamia, are taking a course favourable to us. The Persian Mudjahds are rendering us great assistance. We surprised the enemy on the Euphrates, and captured seven food-laden vessels.

[Russian communiques have not referred to the fighting in this region for some time. While the British were besieged at Kut-el-Amara Russian troops advanced steadily through Persia, seizing Hamadan and Kermanshah, and reaching the country near the Mesopotamian frontier. A force of Cossacks, after a very remarkable ride, joined the British relieving column south of Kut, but the remainder of the Russians evidently withdrew. Petrograd announced a few weeks ago that the troops had retired to the mountains to await cooler weather. Subsequent Turkish communiques claimed that the Russians had been defeated, and were now besieged, and that Kermanshah had been retaken. The Russians in this inhospitable country are very far from their base, and it is understood that they have contended with great transport difficulties.]

THE DEUTSCHLAND.

AFRAID OF ALLIES' TRAPS.

NEW YORK, July 20.

The crew of the German submarine Deutschland fear that the Allies' cruisers, which are waiting for her outside of territorial waters, are spreading nets and preparing to use submarines and even aircraft in order to prevent the return of the vessel to Germany.

MR. HUGHES.

NEW YORK, July 19.

The "New York Times" says that Mr. Hughes took England by storm because of the novelty of his methods. He is more like a very mild Bryan than a Lincoln.

BRITAIN'S "BLACK LIST."

NEWSPAPER INDIGNATION.

NEW YORK, July 20.

The New York "American" says that the "black list" of enemy or "tainted" firms compiled by Britain is a flagrant violation of American sovereignty. It would be humiliating to submit. Reprisals, not words, would be the proper means by which to secure respect. The paper believes that Britain intends to extend the "black list."

Several other newspapers criticise the British "black list." Many protests have been received by the State Department, where it is regarded as an attempt to injure enemy trade at the expense of neutral trade.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

WAR NOTES.

A SHORT-LIVED GERMAN SUCCESS.

There need be no feelings of alarm at the temporary success of the German counter-attack on the newly-won position north of the Somme. On the other hand there is much cause for satisfaction in the speedy recovery by the British of the positions, or, at any rate, of most of the lost ground. Determined and well-organised enemy counter-attacks are only to be expected, and it is a recognised fact that these are most effective when delivered immediately on positions which have just been gained. The preliminary bombardment which has enabled the attackers to secure a footing in the enemy's line has also necessitated the reconstruction of the defences, and, until the successful attackers have consolidated their positions, they are liable to be thrown out by a strong counter-attack at any moment. There have been innumerable instances during the present war where positions have been lost and regained time after time. At Thiaumont Work, as well as at numbers of other well-known points, the ground has changed hands four and five times in as many days. That the enemy should make a most determined bid to retrieve his losses at Longueval and Delville Wood was only natural, as the advance of the British here has made his position in Pozieres and Guillemont most uncomfortable. A successful counter-stroke was absolutely necessary from the German point of view. It appears to have been made in strength, and with a disregard for losses. That it did not achieve the desired object is evident from General Haig's announcement that most of the lost ground was regained almost immediately. The Germans in Guillemont, who are reported to have been dispersed while massing for an attack on Waterlot Farm, should shortly be fully occupied in the defence of the village itself, as Guillemont is likely soon to be caught between the British in the north, near Longueval, and the French in the south, near Hardecourt.

RUSSIAN CAVALRY IN HUNGARY.

There is an air of verisimilitude about the three unofficial messages which announce the entry into Hungarian territory of Russian cavalry. Even Count Bethlen, the president of a frontier county, who a day or two ago declared this to be an impossibility, is no doubt aware of their presence now. But the appearance of these Russians on the southern side of the Carpathians does not presage an early invasion of Hungary from this particular region. The arrival of cavalry at points far ahead of the main Russian forces is not unusual on this front, and does not even indicate the route along which the main forces will proceed. It has previously been stated that a serious Russian invasion of Hungary through the passes at this eastern end of the Carpathians is most unlikely. The main object of their visit is to threaten the communications of the Austrians, as suggested in the cabled messages this morning. The latest news received from this front has not made perfectly clear the nature of the operations, nor the strength of the enemy forces at present in Southern Bukovina. When Czernowitz was captured, portion of General Pflanzer's army retreated westward towards Kuty and Kolomea, and the remainder fell back southward along the Roumanian border towards the Eastern Carpathians. We have recently heard of fighting near Kimpolung, and last week it was announced from Berlin that the Bukovinan Administrative Department had been removed from Dorna Watra to Kolosvar, "owing to the pressure of military events." As Dorna Watra is situated near the most south-easterly point of Bukovina, this would suggest that the remainder of the Austrians who fell back southwards from Czernowitz are now almost back into Hungary.

AUSTRIANS SOUTH-WEST OF KUTY.

According to the Russian communique published this morning there are still some Austrians on the northern side of the Carpathians between Kimpolung and Jablonitza Pass. These are most likely portion of the defenders of Czernowitz, who fell back to the westward. Their position is far from pleasant if the report of the Russian cavalry having entered Hungary is correct. They appear to have been driven south-westward from Kuty towards the Carpathians, and the Russians are now pressing them back into the mountains. They are unable to retreat much further to the westward, as the Russians from Kolomea and the Delatyn railway, further westward, have worked their way well down the Pruth River towards Jablonitza Pass. With the Russian forces from Kuty on their north, others in the Pruth valley to the westward, the Kimpolung army on the east, and the Russian cavalry on the Kirlibaba-Maramaros Sziget road to the south, they appear to be in an awkward predicament. But the cavalry in the south is at present an unknown quantity, and there is a certain amount of doubt as to how far they have actually penetrated Hungary, or as to how long they are likely to remain there. Kirlibaba, where the Russians passed through into Hungary, lies about 21 miles to the north-west of Kimpolung. The road which they are reported to have taken follows a north-westerly direction over a steep mountain range and along a valley between the main Carpathians in the north and the Transylvanian Carpathians in the south. Maramaros Sziget lies over 60 miles along this road. It is not likely that the Russians are near this town yet, and even the Vienna message received through Amsterdam, to the effect that the telegraphic communication with this town has been suspended, is difficult to understand. Considerable risk would be attached to an advance as far as this town by an isolated body, and it is doubtful whether they will push on so far.

"SECRET CHANGES" IN GERMAN SUBMARINES.

There are signs of a recrudescence of Germany's submarine campaign against unarmed merchantmen, and we are again receiving warnings from the press of Berlin regarding "important secret changes" in Germany's under-water craft. According to the Government-controlled "Lokal Anzeiger" these changes will constitute a great advantage in the event of Germany being compelled to act ruthlessly. We have heard so often of wonderful German inventions and improvements in naval construction, which were to lead to the destruction of the British Navy, that we need have no anxiety regarding the latest bogey of the Berlin press. The recent battle of Jutland proved conclusively that we had nothing to fear either from the mysterious new big guns or submarines capable of sinking vessels without the aid of periscopes. The "Naval and Military Record" recently referred to the rumours of new and startling developments in German submarines as follows:—"The imitative policy pursued by Germany in recent years naturally leads us to expect no particular surprise in man-of-war design during the present struggle. Even the wonderful submarines she was said to have put in commission a few months since fall far short of the expectations aroused by the boasts of the German press, judging from the description of one of these boats which appeared in the 'Times' last week on the authority of a neutral skipper, who was taken aboard after his ship had been torpedoed. The general dimensions, range of endurance, armament, and internal arrangements in no way surpass the corresponding features of several boats which were projected in other countries long before the war. If this boat was really one of the largest and latest to be added to the German flotilla, it is obvious that the fearsome stories of the 'submarine monitors' current a few months ago had little foundation, and the Germans are likely to learn a good deal more than they can teach in the way of submarine construction."

THE BANK RATE.

LONDON, July 20.

The bank rate is unchanged.

RECRUITING.

At Victoria Barracks yesterday 71 men volunteered and 36 were accepted.

Recruiting at the barracks generally tails off towards the end of the week, and this week has proved no exception to the rule, but all the same some good men offered yesterday. They included a cook and a baker and a boilermaker, a commercial broker, a ledgerkeeper, a dental mechanic, a boatbuilder, a hatter, and a director and solicitor. There were also a tobacconist, a farmer from Boree Creek, and a descendant of one of the mutineers of the Bounty, in the person of Buffett Quintal, a labourer from Norfolk Island. Others were a surgical instrument maker, a ship's painter, a freeholder from Surry Hills, a civil engineer, a chemist, a farmer from Mill Ridge, a steward, a barman, a telephonist, a metal dealer, and a woodworking machinist.

Sergeant C. R. C. Lundy, of the 1st Field Company Engineers, who has been mentioned in despatches for gallant services in Gallipoli, is the only son of the late Mr. John Lundy, of the Public school at Little Plain, Inverell, and Mrs. Lundy, of the Cleveland-street Public School, Cleveland-street.

The Rev. H. C. Walton, of the Anglican Church, Broken Hill, who has been acting as vicar, has enlisted for active service as chaplain, and will leave Broken Hill on July 31.

OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Of 75 men who volunteered to-day, 47 were accepted.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Twenty-nine recruits were accepted in Queensland to-day.

RAILWAY MISHAP.

COMMISSIONERS' SPECIAL DERAILED.

A special train, consisting of an engine and four carriages, met with an accident at about 2 o'clock at Byrock on Wednesday afternoon.

On the train were Mr. J. Fraser (Acting Chief Commissioner) and Mr. E. Milne (Assistant Commissioner), who were making their annual tour of inspection.

At the spot where the accident happened, the foundations of the permanent way had become loosened and soft owing to recent heavy rains. The line here had been recently relaid with new rails and sleepers.

The train met a soft patch, with the result that the tender left the rails and the flanges of the wheel cut off a number of bolts and unfastened the fishplates. The engine kept the line. Fortunately, the carriages did not leave the rails. A breakdown gang soon repaired the damage, and the traffic was not delayed. Very little injury was done to the vehicles, and nobody was hurt except one of the attendants, who sustained a scalp wound and shock.

The delay interfered with the programme of inspection. The Commissioners returned to Sydney about noon yesterday, after dealing with routine work on the return journey.

MANLY COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

MR. BLACK'S ACTION.

Mr. Black, Minister for Health, referred yesterday to the City Coroner's remarks about the death of a boy at the Manly Cottage Hospital, no doctor having seen him prior to his death.

"It was plainly a serious error of judgment on the part of the matron," said Mr. Black. "The hospitals are there to save life. The lad should have been admitted at once, and any extremity at all gone to to get a doctor. I have called on the matron for a report on the matter," he added.

The Minister went on to say that the Manly hospital, like many others, was overcrowded, but his Government was doing its best to remedy these things. There was nothing new in the position that the hospital was without a resident medical officer, he said. But the Government insisted that all doctors should have the right to treat patients at semi-public, subsidised hospitals.

CHURCH PARADE.

A voluntary church parade of troops at present in camp at Liverpool, under the command of Colonel Jackson, will be held on Sunday. The parade will fall in at Eddy-avenue at 10 a.m., and move off at 10.30 in the following order:—First column, Roman Catholics, via Pitt and Market streets and St. James'-road, to St. Mary's Cathedral; second column, other denominations except Anglicans, via Pitt-street, to the Lyceum Hall; third column, Anglicans, via Pitt and Bathurst streets, to St. Andrew's Cathedral. At the conclusion of the respective services the three columns will march independently to Central-avenue, Hyde Park, where they will be dismissed.

LATE WAR NEWS.

SOMME BATTLE.

FRENCH INFANTRY ATTACK.

FURTHER MARKED GAINS.

LONDON, July 20.

A French communique issued at 3 p.m. on Thursday says: Our infantry on both sides of the Somme attacked, and realised marked advantages.

We captured trenches from the Hardecourt Knoll to the river, and the whole of the enemy's first line of trenches from Barleux to Soyecourt.

BRITISH SURPRISED.

BUT ASSUME MASTERY.

PARIS, July 20.

The Germans, attacking Longueval and Delville Wood, launched several regiments in mass formation on a narrow front.

The British, who were organising their new positions, were surprised, but they fought heroically against odds of four to one, and gradually assumed the mastery.

AGAINST ANNEXATION.

ZURICH, July 20.

The majority of the leading German newspapers now support the anti-annexation policy enunciated by the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg.

The "Munich Post" declares that the lives of the Fatherland's defenders must not be sacrificed for annexation schemes which cannot be carried out.

DEMAND FOR PEACE.

OPINION IN HUNGARY.

INDEPENDENCE SOUGHT.

AMSTERDAM, July 20.

The new party which has been formed by Count Karolyi in the Hungarian Parliament to prosecute a demand for peace, is seeking the economic independence of Hungary, an independent army, and an independent bank.

MESOPOTAMIA.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

LONDON, July 20.

The War Office states there is nothing to report in connection with the campaign in Mesopotamia. The heat is excessive, being over 120 degrees in the shade.

ITALY AND GERMANY.

NO MORE GERMAN GOODS.

ROME, July 20.

A decree forbids the passage of German goods to Italy, and authorises measures to be taken against German subjects.

TURKISH CLAIMS.

RUSSIANS REPULSED.

LONDON, July 20.

A Constantinople communique states: The Russians were repulsed east of Sineh leaving a great number of dead.

We carried out a successful attack in the Caucasus.

ZEPPELIN WRECKED.

THE HAGUE, July 20.

It is reported in Cologne that the Russian guns wrecked a Zeppelin at Riga.

BRITISH PRISONERS SHOT.

AMSTERDAM, July 20.

The "Frankfurter Zeitung" states that British prisoners took part in a riot in a camp which is not named. The camp guards fired, killing two.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

LONDON, July 20.

The 4-mstd. schooner Lottie Bennett has arrived at San Francisco. The 3-mstd. schooner Annie Larson which left Lyttelton on May 9, has arrived at Aberdeen, Washington.

The steamers Rimutaka and Walton Hall have sailed for Lyttelton. The steamer Apolda has left for Bunbury.

INNAMINCKA.

PERMITTED TO LEAVE AUSTRALIA.

After being held up by the Federal authorities for over six months, the steamer Innamincka has been granted permission to leave Australia.

The Innamincka, which is a vessel of 2501 tons, built in 1891, was sold in January last by the Adelaide Steamship Company to Eastern buyers. Preparations were made for the vessel's departure for Hongkong, but at the last moment the Federal authorities refused to grant her a clearance. This attitude was then regarded as somewhat surprising, in view of the fact that the Australian Steamships liner Peregrine, which was sold to Eastern buyers soon after the sale of the Innamincka was effected, was allowed to clear for Shanghai, which is a treaty port, whereas the Innamincka was refused a clearance to Hongkong, a British Crown colony.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

MR. CARR'S ADVOCACY.

BATHURST, Thursday.

Mr. E. S. Carr, Labour member for Macquarie, made his first pronouncement on the question of conscription in his electorate to the inaugural meeting of the Bathurst Universal Service League last night. If the league was to be successful, said Mr. Carr, they would have to preach the gospel of universal service. They would have to spread it broadcast, so that everybody would become seized with the true conception of the object. The unionists were against compulsion, yet they adopted compulsion in the most rigid form by trying to compel members to adopt a certain attitude. He thought Australia had sent its full complement of men to the front, but he also thought that if they had adopted the universal system at first there would have been less wastage in material. He believed if the system was thoroughly explained a majority of the unionists would be in favour of universal service.

ONE DAY STOP.

MEETINGS THROUGHOUT AUSTRALIA.

MINERS' DEMANDS.

STRIKE THREAT.

The mining unions and federations throughout Australia stopped work yesterday in order to deal with resolutions on the eight-hour question. For the most part the meetings were unanimous in protesting against the present system. The resolutions were as follow:—

"That this meeting expresses its strongest protest against the action of the colliery proprietors of the Commonwealth in their failure to grant to the members of the Australian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation an eight-hour bank to bank working day, and extra time for working Sundays, holidays, and overtime."

(2) "That in view of the fact that the Judge has again summoned the respective representatives to meet in Melbourne on July 26, we instruct the council of the Coal and Shale Employees' Federation, when in Melbourne, to approach the Acting Prime Minister and urge that the question be immediately dealt with in the Arbitration Court, and further that, failing a satisfactory result, we instruct the council to call an aggregate meeting on August 2."

THE MEETINGS.

MEN UNANIMOUS AT NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

An aggregate meeting of miners of the Newcastle district was held at Lambton Park today. There were about 300 men present.

Mr. Saunders, in moving the first resolution, said it was a meek and lowly protest, considering that the organisation had from 18,000 to 20,000 members, and that a Labour Government had been in power for six years. During the past 25 years the miners had not advanced their position one iota, while every other body of workers in this State had made great strides. If the proprietors would not meet the miners and talk the position over, there was only one thing to do, and that was to tell them that the 29,000 members of the federation did not intend to do any more work until they got redress.

Mr. Dugald (Dudley) said they were demonstrating to-day to the eight-hour muddlers in Parliament, and also to the proprietors, that they had better be careful, or something was liable to happen. Every miners' organisation in the world, except the Japanese, had eight hours bank to bank, and some places in the British Empire had six hours.

Mr. S. Bird, president of the Illawarra Miners' Association, in supporting the resolution, said that the Upper House framed practically a new Eight-hour Bill. There was a clause in it which stated that any agreement, mutual or otherwise, or any award drafted after the framing of the bill, must be subject to the approval of the Judge, otherwise it could not be enforced. So that if the owners agreed to the eight hours bank to bank principle the law would not allow the miners to have it. The Coal and Shale Federation had got on its feet, he continued, and if it did not do something the sooner it went overboard the better. Having made the protest they would have to do something further. The time had arrived when they would have to consider seriously whether they would allow themselves to be put off from time to time. If the Judge was not prepared to give the men a definite assurance that those things would have to be settled, then the men would have to impress on the Federal Court the necessity of getting a move on, or the men would act. The Government had acted quickly over the metalliferous mines at Broken Hill, but the coal mines dispute was vastly more important. If the coal mines were idle it would mean not only the metalliferous mines being held up, but also all the other industries of the Commonwealth.

The motions were carried unanimously.

MINERS' ULTIMATUM.

MEETING AT WOLLONGONG.

WOLLONGONG, Thursday.

At the Wollongong Stadium a largely attended aggregate meeting was held.

Mr. E. Jackson (vice-president of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association) presided. The principal speakers were Messrs. J. M. Baddely and E. Aubin, president and vice-president respectively of the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation. The attendance numbered over 2000, and with the exception of about 20 members, who interrupted at intervals, the proceedings were orderly throughout.

Mr. W. Davis (South Clifton) moved the first resolution. The mover said that in connection with their grievances the owners had continually ignored and insulted the miners. If this attitude were continued the men would be compelled to take drastic action. At the same time he would make an appeal for united action, all to come out when the decision had been arrived at to strike. Strikes of the future would cover very large areas, and be short, sharp, and very decisive. They did not want to strike, but if compelled they did not want to go into battle with bows and arrows. To ensure success it would be necessary to use big guns, and not move in small sections. They could now call on their allies in Tasmania, Victoria, Queensland, and throughout the Commonwealth, and march in one solid body and not in sections, as in the past. (Applause.) It had come to this, they must bring in better conditions for all, and especially the boy employees. (Applause.)

In seconding the resolution, Mr. J. T. Sweeney (secretary, Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association) said that for 25 years in the South Coast district they had been groping in the dark looking for a way to get out of the difficulty regarding eight hours. Why, he asked, should the coalowners be the only privileged persons to work days more than eight hours?

Mr. E. Aubin (vice-president of the Coal Employees' Federation) congratulated the miners on the South Coast on their patience. The federation had not been idle, and if constitutional methods failed they could say if the necessity arose: "Stop production of coal throughout the Commonwealth!" They were, he said, determined to get eight hours. (Applause.)

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. T. Marshall moved the second resolution, which was seconded by Mr. D. Duncombe.

Mr. J. M. Baddely (president Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation) said he had been given to understand that the feeling was such on the South Coast that he believed if the men were asked to cease work at any time they would do so.

A voice "We are ready now."

Continuing, Mr. Baddely said the miners on the Coast must recognise the fact that they were only one district, and must abide by the rule of the majority. One district could not hope to obtain victory by itself. It was only by co-ordination of all workers that this could be brought about. While he recognised that men could be organised, time was necessary to lead and educate them to study the position. As president of the federation he was not going to promise the meeting that on August 2 there would be a general cessation of work. He was there to explain the position as decided by the federation. If the meeting rejected the resolution, and others rejected it, too, there would be nothing left but to come out with a clean-cut proposition. The federation was still in an embryonic state. They were as yet uncertain of the workers in this particular industry. The federation knew if it came out with a policy to cease work tomorrow it would do no good. Instead, they sent out a feeler of a one-day stop all throughout the Commonwealth. If the necessity arose they would be called out for many days. If their representatives were in the right place, there would be no necessity for cease work had been tabled, their representatives had loyally abided by the ruling of the council of the federation. (Applause.)

The resolution was carried, only 20 voting against.

In answer to questions Mr. Baddely said he could not guarantee a cessation of work on August 3. All he could say was the position was serious. The council of the federation was trying to assist them, and a general cessation of work at the present time would not be a wise policy. If, after the compulsory conference they could get a promise that the Court would take up the matter in a week this would be reasonable, and in his opinion they should accept it. Another matter that would have to be determined was the question of the Court sitting irrespective of sectional stoppages. It was considered there was no necessity for the machinery of the Court to cease through these causes.

COMPULSORY CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

On the understanding that there will be a continuance of work at the various collieries in the Commonwealth from to-morrow, Mr. Justice Higgins has called a compulsory conference of the parties, to take place in Melbourne on Monday next.

The Coal and Shale Employees' Federation has lodged a plaint with the Arbitration Court, in which increased wages and shorter working hours are sought.

A VICTORIAN STRIKE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Engine-drivers and firemen engaged at the State coal mine ceased work at midnight yesterday on account of their demands for increased wages being refused. They have agreed to stand out until their increases are granted. They will be supported in their demands by members of the Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Federation. Therefore, the mine will be idle to-morrow.

COLLIERY MECHANICS.

WEST MAITLAND, Thursday.

An aggregate meeting of members of the Federated Mining Mechanics' Association met here this afternoon to consider the offer of the proprietors regarding a conference and resumption of work at the collieries. A resolution was carried agreeing to resume work to-morrow morning and accepting the proprietors' offer of a conference at Newcastle to-morrow afternoon.

AVIATION SCHOOL.

ARRIVAL OF INSTRUCTORS.

Messrs. W. J. Stutt and Andrew Lang, the pilot instructors engaged by the State Government for the aviation school at Richmond, arrived in Sydney yesterday. They are both Australians, who learned flying with the Royal Flying Corps at Farnborough, England.

Mr. Stutt, who is a native of Hawthorn (Vic.), was, at the time of his selection by the British War Office for the present appointment, acting as chief test pilot at Farnborough. He took up aviation over three years ago, and has made flights in every type of machine. Most of the captured German aeroplanes have been tested by him, and he says that there is no doubt the English machines are better than those of the enemy. He has made a number of flights over the battle front.

Mr. Lang, who is a native of Corowa, was before he went to England to study aviation an enthusiastic motorist. He was on the instruction staff at Farnborough for about 12 months. When due to go to the front he had to undergo a serious operation, and on his recovery was kept on organising work till selected for the present position.

A visit was made yesterday by Messrs. Stutt and Lang to the new aviation school, the official opening of which is to take place next month.

MARSINA'S MISFORTUNES.

STRANDED AND SHORT OF COAL.

The Burns, Philp Island steamer Marsina reached Sydney yesterday from Rabaul after a voyage marked by misfortune.

The Marsina, which is a vessel of 1932 tons, was proceeding from Rabaul on June 20 to Kaewejing, an outlying island, when she ran aground on a coral reef in Stephen Strait, which separates the island of Manumudar from the mainland of German New Guinea. The vessel had a fair speed on, and was carried well on to the reef before the engines could be reversed. After an unsuccessful attempt had been made to back the vessel off, a wireless message for assistance was sent to the Administrator at Rabaul. The vessel was in no immediate danger, as the sea was calm, and she was not leaking.

When the patrol steamers Mekiong and Una came to the assistance of the Marsina it was found that the vessel could only be refloated by lightering her cargo. This work was commenced with the assistance of the patrol steamers, but before the vessel was afloat again the whole of her contents, including 150 tons of water ballast, had been taken out, and the work of discharging occupied seven days. And then the cargo had to be reloaded. A preliminary examination showed that the damage was confined to three strained plates.

When the vessel returned to Rabaul a further examination was made, and the vessel was deemed sufficiently seaworthy to undertake the voyage to Sydney. On the voyage down the coast, however, she had the further misfortune of running short of coal, and had to burn boxes and other wooden fixings to take her into Byron Bay. When she reached there she was moving at only three knots. Owing to her draught the vessel could not go alongside the jetty at Byron Bay, and was anchored with the aid of motor boats.

As soon as her cargo has been discharged the Marsina will go into dock.

CASUALTIES.

OPEN VERDICT.

The death of William Hurley, 48 years of age, a farmer, was the subject of an inquiry yesterday. A witness stated that about 8 p.m. on June 1 deceased was seen in a drunken condition near the corner of Oxford and Bowling streets. Some time afterwards he was seen to stagger and fall against a house. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he died the following day. Dr. S. Sheldon, who conducted a post-mortem examination, stated that deceased's injuries could have been caused through falling while drunk. An open verdict was returned.

SAILOR SERIOUSLY INJURED.

MACLEAN, Thursday.

A sailor named Jenkins met with a shocking accident on board the Pulganbar to-day. The vessel was putting into the local wharf, and Jenkins was engaged making the mooring spring fast to the bollard when his foot became jammed. The flesh was torn from his leg, and the lower portion above the ankle was completely severed. He was admitted to the local hospital in an unconscious condition.

DEATH OF MR. F. R. C. HOPKINS

CARCOAR, Thursday.

Mr. F. R. C. Hopkins met with a fatal accident at his Errowanbang station to-day. He was repairing a well some distance from the homestead, when apparently he slipped, and fell into the well, and as he was alone at the time no help was forthcoming, the body not being discovered until some hours later.

A GRAZIER'S ESTATE.

Letters of administration have been granted in the estate of George Miller Gavel, of Gulgo, Condobolin, grazier, deceased, to his sons, James Thomson Gavel, of Gulgo, grazier; and Frederick William Gavel, of Dubbo, stock inspector. Deceased died on May 12 last, and the net value of his New South Wales estate was sworn at £44,986.

SHACKLETON EXPEDITION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It was announced by the Acting Prime Minister, Senator Pearce, to-day, that the Governor-General had received a cable message from the Secretary of State for the Colonies stating that the New Zealand Government had been informed that the Aurora was not wanted to proceed to Elephant Island to pick up the stranded members of the Shackleton expedition, as arrangements had been made to send the Discovery from England.

WANTED, £15,000.

REMEMBER OUR NURSES.

"EDITH CAVELL HOUSE."

PROGRESS OF THE MOVEMENT.

It is pleasant to think that whilst we are doing all we can for our soldiers, we are not forgetting our nurses—those brave women who have gone forth from Australia to minister to our wounded and sick troops. We can never do too much for either our soldiers or our nurses.

A few months ago, at a public meeting presided over by the Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen, a movement to provide a rest, or holiday, house for Australian army nurses was successfully launched in Sydney. At the outset the task was rendered comparatively easy, through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Shaw, of Penlee, Summer Hill, who handed over their beautiful house and grounds as a gift to the committee of the Edith Cavell Memorial Association. Together with the house—now known as "Edith Cavell House"—the electric light fittings and the carpets were also given. It remained for the committee to make some necessary alterations to the building and to complete the equipment, and then to raise a fund for its endowment. The amount required is £15,000.

The committee have not the slightest doubt of reaching the objective. Since the war began we have seen a wonderful outburst of patriotism and generosity in this country. We have sent a quarter of a million men to fight for the Empire, and we have sent between 600 and 700 of our nurses away to the military hospitals. Our soldiers have performed deeds of valour; our nurses have established an enduring reputation, and a number of them have been decorated with the Royal Red Cross. But at home, as well as abroad, we have done marvellous things, and for the money and the food and clothing we have sent away we have earned the thanks of France, of Belgium, and of other Allies. If our rich men have given their sons to the Empire's service; if they have cheerfully contributed their share to the extra taxation which the war has entailed, and invested their money in the Australian war loan; if they have on top of that cheerfully put their hands in their pockets and contributed so generously to the many patriotic funds, and in some notable instances even given their homes to the nation, those who are not rich have also done their share, and done it nobly.

And especially are our women entitled to our thanks. Nowhere in the world, in proportion to population, has a greater Red Cross work been done than in Australia; and this is chiefly a women's organisation. Rich women and poor women, they are all in it—all working as they never worked before. The war will end, let us hope, before long; but the great sisterhood which it has raised up will continue to be an ever-increasing power in the land.

Our women have done great things for us; let us now do a little thing for them. Let us in gratitude endow this rest-house for our nurses. "Mother," wrote one of our soldiers from Egypt a little while ago, "our Australian nurses are all 'bricks.' Every one of them is a ministering angel, and there's many a mother at home who would never see her boy again if it were not for these girls, who never seem to think of rest." But after the war our nurses will need rest; and that is why "Edith Cavell House"—called after the brave British nurse who was executed by the Germans in Brussels—has been established. There they may have a well-earned holiday; there they may recuperate. For such as return to us with shattered health, beyond hope of ever regaining their old strength, it will be a home as long as they may need it. Don't let us ask them to pay anything—unless they wish to do so. Let us make it a free gift. It is the least we can do.

A SPLENDID RESPONSE.

An endowment fund of £15,000 is needed. If a "Nurses' Day" were to be arranged the money would be raised in one day; but the committee, of which Lady Cullen is president, are averse to this. And their explanation is because it is "unnecessary"—the money will come in without it. Already, as the hon. treasurers (Messrs. J. Ussell French, H. H. Masel and Edwin B. Giles) pointed out in their statement at Monday's meeting of the executive, a sum of £1300 has been received. This amount includes donations of £100 each from the British Australian Tobacco Company's employees' patriotic fund, the Walter and Eliza Hall trust, and Messrs. Samuel Hordern, Dugald Thomson, and Percy Faithfull.

But other large amounts have been raised by various branches of the Red Cross Society for equipping the building, so that nearly all of the sum mentioned will go to the endowment fund. The Cowemerne branch of the Red Cross Society, for instance, has collected £203, and has expressed a desire that the money be used in furnishing three of the rooms—the sitting-room, lounge-room, and writing-room. The Casino branch has sent £50 to be used in purchasing furniture, and has promised more. The Byron Bay branch has raised £50 for furnishing. The South Grafton branch has promised to furnish one room as soon as it receives an estimate from the house committee, which consists of Miss Isla Bloomfield, Miss Kendall Davies, Mrs. Stuckeli Gillies, and Miss Eileen Teece. Mrs. Andrew Black has given twelve beds, with bedding complete, and also £50 worth of linen. Mrs Rance, of Tinlibs, Leura, is giving all the linen for one room. The Singer Company has given a sewing machine, valued at £15 15s. The Granville Brotherhood has given £10 towards the furnishing.

Special mention should be made of the fact that the Red Cross Society has ear-marked £1000 in connection with this rest-house for the nurses. The society cannot hand the money over as a cash donation, but it is prepared to provide comforts for the nurses up to that amount as time goes on. Apart from this, the society has helped, and is helping, very materially by making a direct appeal to the branches throughout the State to contribute to this worthy cause.

At Ashfield and Summer Hill, in which district the house is situated, a special effort is being made to raise £500. Half of that sum has already been raised, and it is expected that the rest will be in hand before the end of the year. On Monday the committee granted a request from Ashfield for the use of the Petsee grounds on October 7 next, for the purposes of a garden fete. Mrs. Hammond, the Mayoress of Ashfield, is a member of the central committee.

At Burwood, also, the Red Cross branch is working hard, with a similar sum as the objective; and Mrs. Russell Glasson has been elected to the central committee. A special effort to contribute to the fund is being made by the soldiers' wives and widows of Burwood, who have organised a bazaar, to be held in the local Town Hall to-morrow. This is a touching recognition of the work our nurses are doing.

And at many another centre, in the metropolis and in the country, the women are collecting and organising entertainments in aid of the fund. From many schools in the country donations have also been received

A ROLL OF HONOUR.

But we don't want the women to do it all. We want the men to help them—merchants, pastoralists, shopmen, artisans. A scheme has been mapped out for dividing the State into 15 districts and making an appeal for 100 subscriptions of £10 in each district. That would bring in the £15,000 required. It should not be impossible of accomplishment. But the first need is for someone to organise the appeal in each district. In a few districts organisers have already volunteered; and, of course, they are women. The others have yet to be found.

In the "Edith Cavell House," our gift to our war nurses, there is to be a roll of honour, containing the names of all subscribers of £10 and over. And it will be an honour to have one's name inscribed thereon. Subscriptions should be sent to Mr. Edwin B. Giles, 4 O'Connell-street.

VALUABLE GIFT.

Dr. Herschel Harris, a member of the executive of the Edith Cavell Memorial Association, has presented a series of 200 lantern slides to the committee, depicting scenes that came under his personal observation at military hospitals at Gallipoli and Lemnos; and it is hoped that a large sum may be realised by showing the pictures throughout the country. These pictures were shown at St. James's Hall last night, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Australian Trained Nurses' Association. Dr. Harris was offered a large sum for them, both in London and in Australia, but he has generously presented them to the Edith Cavell committee.

HOMES FOR SOLDIERS.

COOGEE RESIDENT'S OFFER.

Mr. David Storey, M.L.A., has received a letter from Mr. Aaron Wolper, J.P., of Anzac, Berwick-street, Coogee, in which he states that he is heartily in accord with the movement for settling invalid returned soldiers in homes of their own. He offers the Government, through the member for Randwick, two blocks of land for this purpose—one situated in William-street, Fairfield, and the other in Albert-street, Riversdene—together with his cheque for £10 towards the erection of cottages, in the hope that the balance of the cost of the erection of the cottages will be subscribed by the public.

THE SCHOOLS.

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

WHOLE STATE COVERED.

"Within the next few days," said the Minister for Education yesterday, "the medical branch of the Education Department will have completed the inspection of practically every school in the State. The only part that remains to be done is a small section of the Grafton district. Approximately 250,000 boys and girls have been examined by the staff, and 3000 schools have been visited."

Since the system of school medical inspection was reorganised during 1912, under the direction of Dr. C. S. Willis the principal medical officer, the Minister continued, the staff had travelled throughout the length and breadth of the State. In the western districts schools were sometimes 100, and even 120, miles apart, but this distance was no bar to the work of the school doctors. Repeatedly the medical officers had to camp out while travelling between schools, and many discomforts and inconveniences had to be endured. The work of the school medical branch comprised medical inspection and treatment by means of the metropolitan dental clinic, the school travelling hospital, six travelling dental clinics, and the travelling ophthalmic clinic. Approximately, 60 per cent. of the pupils suffered from some juvenile defects of the eye, ear, nose, throat, teeth, or skin, but of those found defective only one in three obtained treatment upon the advice given by the staff. So far, only one travelling hospital was in operation, but when the necessary additions to the staff were obtained it was proposed to establish and equip four others. During 1915 the travelling hospital had successfully treated 2258 pupils. This travelling hospital, the Minister explained, for the most part visited outlying schools remote from medical attendance.

MOTORING MISHAP.

CAR FALLS 80 FEET.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Mr. John Spira was motoring to-day with his wife and daughter, aged 10 years, and they were about to cross the bridge over the Darebin Creek, Alphington, when Mr. Spira swerved the car in order to pass a timber jinker. The wheels skidded on the greasy road, and the car, getting beyond control, crashed through the fence at the side of the road and tumbled headlong down the creek embankment, a distance of about 80ft. Mrs. Spira suffered wound of the brain, as it is feared she has some ribs broken. Her husband sustained severe abrasions about the head, but the little girl escaped practically uninjured.

FEDERAL CAPITAL.

EVIDENCE BY MR. GRIFFIN.

FRICTION BETWEEN OFFICIALS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Sitting as a Royal Commission, Mr. W. Blacket, K.C., to-day continued his inquiry into the administration of the Home Affairs Department.

Evidence was given by Mr. W. B. Griffin, Director of Design and Construction in connection with the Federal capital. The witness stated that when he came to Australia he had interviews at the request of Mr. Kelly, who was in charge of the Home Affairs Department, with the departmental board, and he conceded things for expediency which he did not consider as fundamentality right. He placed a railway station more than a mile from Parliament House buildings. The departmental board wanted a line brought to Parliament House. He compromised by agreeing to a loop line through the city. Every interview with the departmental board was a drawn battle. In connection with the sewerage disposal scheme, witness stated that before he left for the United State in November, 1914, he noticed in the office of Colonel Owen, Director-General of Public Works, a plan in regard to sewerage, and was told that a broad system of irrigation had been proposed. He understood that the plan had reference to the first link in the sewerage system of the Federal capital. "On my return to Melbourne," added the witness, "I went to Colonel Owen, and asked to be supplied with information on the subject. I had previously been told by the Minister in charge of the department that the matter had been held up pending my return."

Mr. Webster: Did Colonel Owen supply you with the information?

Witness: No; he said he would be damned if he would, and that it was none of my business.

Mr. Blacket: It is evident from the correspondence that Colonel Owen would not recognise Mr. Griffin in connection with the matter, as he regarded the sewerage system as outside the scope of Mr. Griffin's agreement.

Mr. Webster: In connection with the withdrawal of competition for the Parliament buildings, did you threaten Mr. Archibald with a law suit?

Witness: The only matter that could be possibly strained into the threat of a law suit was that I told Mr. Archibald that architects who had been working on the designs might have legal rights against the Government. I urged that competition should not be cancelled, but merely postponed, and that the architects should have the assurance that competition would be resumed at some future time.

The inquiry was further adjourned.

WAR CASUALTIES.

SERGEANT G. W. BARRISKILL.

News has been received that Quarter-Master-sergeant G. W. Barriskill was killed in action in France on May 28. Prior to enlisting he was on the chemical staff of the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, and was the only brother of Dr. J. R. Barriskill, of the resident staff of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital. The late Sergeant Barriskill was for several years at the C.S.R. Co.'s head office, and latterly at Hambledon Mill, Cairns.

PRIVATE A. E. FLETCHER.

No. 1577, late 1747, Private A. E. Fletcher, 1st Batt., has been reported as a casualty, but all efforts to trace his next-of-kin, Mrs. Flitcroft, 66 View-street, Annadale, have been without avail.

PRIVATE BASSETT.

WAGGA, Thursday.

Constable P. Bassett has received news of the death in action of his brother, Private O. Bassett, who about 15 months ago enlisted in Condobolin. Deceased was 24 years of age.

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A compulsory conference was held yesterday, before Mr. Justice Powers, in order that it might be ascertained whether the dispute existing between the Storemen and Packers' Union and several grain, wool, skin, and hide firms in New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, and South Australia, could not be determined by agreement. Representatives attended from the different States, but after discussing the matters in dispute at length, it was found that no agreement could be reached, and Mr. Justice Powers referred the dispute to the Commonwealth Arbitration Court.

VICTORIAN CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The final round of the tourney for the championship of Victoria was concluded last night, Mr. Gundersen again being the winner. Mr. Gundersen also won the championship in 1907, 1908, 1912, 1913, and 1915.

MINING INQUIRY.

Messrs. H. Cohen, of Newcastle, and O. E. Sellars, South Coast, have been appointed as a committee to inquire into the alleged danger of coal-cutting by electrical machinery in the Abermain (No. 2) colliery.

FIXING PRICES.

FEDERAL BOARD.

TO SUPERSEDE STATE COMMISSIONS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The Commonwealth Ministry has decided to extend the functions of the Commonwealth Prices Adjustment Board. The details of the extension were announced to-day by the Acting Prime Minister, Senator Pearce. A commissioner has been appointed in each State, and on his advice the board will recommend to the Ministry the prices and rates of foodstuffs, necessary commodities, and transport to be fixed. The announcement made on the subject by Senator Pearce was as follows:—

"The Ministry has decided upon an extension of functions in regard to price-fixing in connection with the war. The extension will be to foodstuffs generally, necessary commodities, and services. A commissioner has been appointed in each State by the Assistant Minister controlling this matter (Senator Russell), and these commissioners will make their price-fixing recommendations to the Federal Prices Board, which will co-ordinate with them, and make recommendations to the Minister thereon. The necessary regulations were put through the executive. Undoubted evidence exists of continually increasing prices in regard to the cost of living, which undoubtedly, if permitted to continue unchecked, would have a very deleterious effect on the ability of the nation to carry out its part in connection with the war. There is not the slightest doubt that constantly increasing prices lead to many of the industrial troubles, and that those in their turn hamper the actions of the nation in preparing itself and its resources for the war. As I have said previously, this is a war of resources, and we have taken this action because we believe it is necessary in order to husband the resources of the nation."

In answer to questions, Senator Pearce said that he supposed that the State Prices Board would be dissolved, as the State commissioners would take their places. The State commissioners would recommend actual prices.

The Commonwealth Prices Adjustment Board is, under this decision, to be continued in existence. The personnel is as follows:—Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P. (N.S.W.), chairman, Senator Barnes (Vic.), and Messrs. Yates (S.A.), Sinclair (Q.), and Fleming (N.S.W.), M.s.P. The State commissioners are as follows:—Victoria, Mr. W. H. Clarke; New South Wales, Mr. V. Ackerman; Queensland, Mr. R. Sumner; South Australia, Mr. D. R. Davidson; Tasmania, Mr. G. F. Martin; Western Australia, Mr. G. Rae.

THE BOARD'S FUNCTIONS.

The regulations under which the fixing of prices in the future be conducted were made available by Senator Russell. Power has been given for the fixing of prices of foodstuffs, necessary commodities, and transport services. The chairman of the board is to be paid 30s per day, and the other members of the board 20s per day each on account of travelling expenses, in addition to fares. The board and each commissioner are given power to summon witnesses, take evidence on oath, require the production of documents, and books and papers, and enter upon premises to inspect documents, books and papers, stocks of foodstuffs, and necessary commodities, or authorise any other person to do so.

The Governor-General may without any recommendation of the board proclaim areas and fix prices and rates.

All orders, awards, determinations, and notifications made under any State Act which have the effect of fixing the maximum prices which may be charged for any goods, and which are in force at the date of the making of these regulations, shall, as far as they are not inconsistent with any prices fixed by these regulations, continue in force in the areas to which they respectively apply. A further provision is that prices fixed shall apply to sale under contracts.

THE COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. W. H. Clarke, the Commissioner for Victoria was, before joining the Commonwealth Service, attached to the New South Wales Department of Agriculture. In 1912 he was appointed Director of Agriculture in the Northern Territory, and was transferred two years later to the Customs Department as chief supervisor of commerce.

Mr. Val Ackerman, the New South Wales Commissioner, is a barrister-at-law in Sydney. In his early days he had experience of mining in the goldfields of New South Wales and Western Australia, and of commercial life in Sydney. Mr. Ackerman practises on the common law side of his profession, and has represented the Crown in many important cases.

Mr. Sumner, the Queensland Commissioner, is a Brisbane business man, and is an ex-member of the Queensland State Parliament. He has had considerable experience of the agricultural industry, and has studied modern methods of food production and distribution.

Mr. Davidson, the South Australian Commissioner, is a member of the State Public Service, and on the outbreak of war was appointed secretary to the South Australian Price Regulation Commission.

Mr. Martin, of Tasmania, after State Public Service and commercial experience, engaged in the fruit-growing industry, was elected to the House of Assembly in 1912, but lost his seat at the recent election.

Mr. Rae, Western Australia, is an ex-manager of Foy and Gibson's, Perth, and was a member of the Western Australian Prices Fixing Board during its short existence.

The salary attaching to the officer of Commissioner is £600 in all the States excepting in Tasmania, where the amount is £500 a year.

THE KING'S SCHOOL.

THE NEW HEADMASTER.

The council of The King's School has unanimously elected Canon J. A. Pattinson, M.A., as headmaster of The King's School, Parramatta, in place of the Rev. P. Stacy Waddy, M.A., who recently resigned in order to take up duties as chaplain at the front. Mr. Pattinson was born in Yorkshire, and is a man of middle-age. He is an M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge; was senior mathematical scholar of his college and Wright's Prizeman, and took first-class honours in the mathematical tripos. He was also Somerset Exhibitioner and Hare Exhibitioner of the college.

He was ordained deacon and priest in the parish of Manchester, and was, for a time, on the staff of the Manchester Grammar School, where he took the mathematical work of the senior forms on the science side. For a number of years he examined various schools in England in all subjects—both secondary and primary schools being visited by him in the diocese of Manchester he was chief secretary of the Diocesan Education Society, and also of the Diocesan Association of Church schools, a statutory body controlling 640 church day schools—as large a number as in any other two dioceses in England. Canon Lowther Clarke was secretary of the council of the Diocesan Association of Church Schools for all England previous to his coming out to be Archbishop of Melbourne, and, on this dignitary leaving England, Mr. Pattinson was appointed to that position, which he retained until he, too, came out to Australia, over six years ago, to be sub-dean and canon residentiary of the new cathedral in Brisbane. He was consecrated in Brisbane in 1910. Whilst in Brisbane he continued his educational work by being mathematical lecturer at St. John's College in the University of Queensland. These appointments at least point to his wide oversight of educational matters in England for many years and also in Australia. Mr. Pattinson was appointed acting-warden of St. Paul's College in the University of Sydney a year ago, and was lecturer in mathematics and physics at that college during his acting wardenship, only relinquishing those duties this month.

REV. STACY WADDY.

The King's School, Parramatta, reopened on Wednesday, after the midwinter vacation. Advantage was taken by the Old Boys' Union of the opportunity to make a presentation of an illuminated address to the retiring headmaster, the Rev. Stacy Waddy, who recently resigned in order to proceed to the front as a chaplain.

The presentation was made by Mr. G. W. Ash, chairman of the committee of the union, and speeches in support were made by Mr. David Maughan, Mr. H. A. I. Smith, and Dr. Percy Ash.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT.

PERTH (W.A.), Thursday.

The third session of Parliament was opened to-day. The following bills were promised:—Initiative and referendum, electoral rolls for the State and Federation, regulation of the prices of commodities, incorporation of trades unions, and municipal amendment, entitling women to sit as councillors.

DOMAIN MEETINGS.

INSPECTOR-GENERAL'S WARNING.

The following letter has been addressed by the Inspector-General of Police to Mr. H. Charlesworth, secretary of the Anti-Conscription League:—

"Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of the 15th inst. asking for permission to take a lorry into the Domain on Sunday afternoon next for use as a platform in connection with an Anti-Conscription League meeting, I beg to inform you that Mr. J. H. Maiden, Director of Botanic Gardens, has no objection to your application being granted, and will make arrangements for the lorry to be admitted. The vehicle should be in position not later than 12 noon.

"With reference to the proposed meeting, I have again to draw your attention to the fact that a public meeting in support of anti-conscription cannot safely be held in the Domain in the present state of public feeling without grave risk of a serious disturbance arising. Perhaps your committee might consider that the subject could be discussed under more favourable circumstances in some public hall rather than in the Government Domain at a time when thousands of women and children are likely to be present.

"If the decision to hold the meeting is persisted in, arrangements will be made for the attendance of sufficient police to preserve order as far as possible and to remove from the Domain, in accordance with the law, all persons, whether members of your organisation or not, whose remarks or conduct may have a tendency to provoke a breach of the peace or any offence."

A.T.N.A.

NURSES AND THE WAR.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the Australasian Trained Nurses' Association was held at St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, last night. Dr. St. John Dansey presided.

The president, in moving the adoption of the annual report, referred to the effect of the war upon the association, no fewer than 700 members being engaged in military work. Eight members had received the distinction of the Royal Red Cross. Of the members of the council, Drs. Fiaschi, Millard, and Stacy, and Misses Gould and Pocock were still at the front, while Dr. Aspinall had returned after doing good work.

The report showed an increase in the list of members, the membership in the various States being as follows:—New South Wales, 1940; Victoria, Mr. W. H. Clarke; New South Wales, Mr. V. Ackerman; Queensland, Mr. R. Sumner; South Australia, Mr. D. R. Davidson; Tasmania, Mr. G. F. Martin; Western Australia, Mr. G. Rae.

GERMAN FINED £20.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

A German named William Robert Stonefield was at the police court to-day fined £20, or two months' imprisonment, for failing to report himself. Evidence was given by Constable Ravelli to the effect that when questioned about his nationality defendant said he could get certain papers from another house. He then went to his room, and attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. On a charge of attempting to commit suicide a sentence of three months was imposed, and suspended under the first offenders' provisions.

TELEPHONE INNOVATION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

An announcement that will be of interest to telephone subscribers is contained in the latest issue of the Commonwealth Gazette. Subscribers whose telephones are connected with an exchange in which the common battery system is in use can obtain an automatic recording register, which will enable them to check the number of calls they originate. The instrument will be affixed to the subscriber's telephone, and the annual rental is 10s at the outset. This boon will be available to a limited number of subscribers only. It has been decided to instal the instruments on telephones connected with Central and North Sydney exchanges.

CENSURE MOTION.

Although the motion of which Mr. Wade, leader of the Opposition, has given notice in respect to Mr. Griffith's position in the State Cabinet, is set down for next Tuesday's sitting of Parliament, it is not likely to come on till later in the week, or even the earlier days of the following week.

The Address in Reply debate will not be suspended to allow the motion to come on.

PUBLICANS' COMPENSATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In speaking at the Liberal Conference Mr. Wade stated that the compensation paid in Victoria did not cost the people one shilling. In a recent issue of your paper a letter appeared from Mr. Clarke, stating this was not so, as Mr. Wade should know all fines and fees went to the compensation fund. As I was chairman of the Wine and Spirits Merchants' Association of Victoria about this time, I would like to inform Mr. Clarke that Mr. Wade is quite correct in his statement. The fees referred to do not form part of the fund from which compensation is paid to the publicans on the deprivation of their licenses. These fees are used for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the licensing Acts. The compensation fund consists solely of the amounts contributed by the licensee, being 8 per cent. on the total purchase price of liquor purchased for each hotel during the preceding 12 months ending September 20 each year. Mr. Clarke is probably misinformed on this matter.

I am, etc.,

Another little newspaper, called "Universal Service," the official organ of the Universal Service League, has just made its appearance, and is to be issued every alternate Saturday. The object of the paper, the editorial foreword explains, is to consolidate the work of the branches and of members of the league throughout the State.

STATE SESSION.

MR. M'DONALD SWORN IN.

SYDNEY WATER SUPPLY.

ADDRESS IN REPLY DEBATE.

The Legislative Assembly resumed the session yesterday afternoon. The Acting Premier made an important announcement on the subject of the threatened water famine in the city. Mr. C. R. W. M'Donald, who was returned during the recess as an independent member for his old electorate of Bingara, he having resigned from the Labour party after the last Labour Conference, was introduced by Messrs. H. D. Morton and Brinsmead. After being sworn in Mr. M'Donald took his seat in the front Opposition cross benches. The debate on the Address in Reply to the Governor's speech was resumed by Mr. James

COST OF FAIR RENTS COURT.

In answer to a question by Mr. Colquhoun, the Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, said that he had learned that day that the figures he had supplied on the previous day about the cost of the Fair Rents Court to June 30 had, in their transmission between the department and the House, become transposed. The total cost of the Court up to the date stated had been £415, and not £145 as stated.

The Minister promised Mr. Thrower to give consideration to a proposal to extend the operations of the Court beyond the metropolitan area.

MR. FLOWERS' EXPENSES.

Replying to Mr. Levy, the Acting Premier, Mr. Cann, said that so far as he knew none of the expenses of Mr. Flowers trip to England were being or were to be paid by the State. Mr. Flowers was making the trip quite privately, so far as he (Mr. Cann) understood, and would pay his own expenses.

ELECTORAL REFORM.

Mr. Ball gave notice that he would move on the next sitting day that the electoral law be amended to provide for proportional representation on an effective system of preferential voting.

SYDNEY'S WATER SHORTAGE.

In response to an appeal by Mr. Fuller, the Acting Premier, Mr. Cann, made a statement on the question of the threatened shortage in the water supply of the metropolis.

"The situation appears to be very serious indeed," said Mr. Cann. He went on to say that unless there was a good fall of rain within the catchment area within the next 200 days—to quote the words

FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

DEDUCTION FOR CHILDREN.

"Hurn" writes:—

Sir,—I am perplexed somewhat in making up my Federal income tax returns this time. I have five children, and one of them, a girl of 14, has been in receipt of £26 a week for the last four months, which money she has saved and gives to her mother entirely. Do I have to include this as part of my income?

Please, Sir, does not benefit me one iota, but, of course, that may not be a relevant consideration in the matter.

As you wholly maintained your daughter at the commencement of the financial year, you may claim a deduction of £135 on her account.

Ignoramus: Unless you make your living share-dealing, profits on the sale of shares are not regarded as income under the Federal Income Tax Acts.

UNIFORM TAXATION PERIOD.

The president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Commonwealth, Mr. George A. Parker, is in receipt of a communication from the Premier of South Australia, in reply to the resolution which was adopted at the recent congress of associated chambers in favour of a uniform date for Federal and State periods of taxation. The South Australian Premier states that a bill is being prepared to provide for a uniform date for all State and Federal returns for income tax purposes.

EDWARDS, DUNLOP, AND CO.

The report of Edwards, Dunlop, and Co., Ltd., for the year ended April 30 states that, notwithstanding the difficulties (mentioned below as due to the war) in connection with the supplies of paper, which adversely affect that portion of the company's business, it is gratifying that the result of the year's activities is a slightly larger profit than was shown by our last balance-sheet." The difficulties are thus described:—"As with most companies in these times, the year has been a strenuous one. Not only has it been difficult to obtain goods even at high prices, but in many instances it was only after the greatest trouble that means of transport were found for them. Indeed, owing to the shortage of ships and the congestion at shipping ports it was impossible to get many hundreds of tons of paper that we had orders for moved at all. To facilitate matters in connection with our paper contracts and other business, it was found necessary to send our secretary (Mr. J. C. Haighway) twice to Canada and America within the year, making since the war began three times in all that he has visited these countries." From the Sydney and Brisbane establishments 32 members of the staff have enlisted. To each the directors paid an honorarium, their positions are being kept open, and the difference between civil and military pay is being made up. A net profit of £40,084 is disclosed in the profit and loss account, which, with £12,373 brought forward, made £52,084 available. A dividend of 5 per cent. on cumulative preference shares absorbs £43,250. A dividend of 10 per cent. on ordinary shares (including interim dividend) accounts for £25,423; a sum of £6742 is added to the reserve, making it £76,000; £2500 is placed to the bonus account, and £13,736 is carried forward. Principal figures of the balance-sheet are:—

	Year ended April 30, 1916.

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

WHO ARE CHARGEABLE.

"Krino" wants to know who are chargeable with Federal Land Tax. Those who are chargeable with land tax are all non-absentee owners of land of which the unimproved value exceeds £5000, and all absentee owners. A tenant for life is regarded as an owner. The owner of a leasehold estate in land is regarded (though not to the exclusion of the liability of any other person, to be the owner of land of an unimproved value equal to the unimproved value of his estate.

MISCELLANEOUS QUERIES.

M.C. (Yass).—It is not necessary to stamp dockets for cash sales unless the buyer requests a receipt, and the docket is given as a receipt.

"Subscriber" asks which of the two parties to a share-farming lease is required to purchase the duty stamp. By schedule 2 of the Stamp Duties Act of 1904 the lessee is rendered liable.

"H. J. R."—Regarding enemy goods, not sufficient information is given. When were the good consigned, and from what port?

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Colonial Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Ltd., proposes to capitalise £100,003 of undivided profits by the issue of fully paid-up shares for this amount. Shareholders will receive as a bonus one new share for every two shares held.

Of the £125,000 of second debentures originally issued by the Electric Light and Power Supply Company, £101,100 had up to the third instant been converted into fully-paid shares.

Of the original issue of £800,000 6 per cent. debentures of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Limited, a further £30,000 were, pursuant to the provisions of the debenture trust deed, redeemed and cancelled on July 4. The amount outstanding is now £540,000.

Bank clearances in Melbourne last week amounted to £5,771,123, and for the period January 1 to July 17 £201,761,381, an increase of £42,066,894.

The report of S. Hoffnung, in addition to particulars given yesterday, recommends 79 per cent. on the preference shares, and the dividend of 15 per cent. on ordinary shares is the same as paid for many years.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

THE STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, July 19.

The stock markets are unsettled, owing to uncertainty regarding the bank rate, but they are less depressed, as money conditions in New York are easier.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Interest among the wholesale grocery houses is now centred in new season's salmon, but prices, it is expected, will not be available before late in August. Recent cables received indicating a rise on last year's rates, varying from 4/ to 5/ a case, would be equal to 1/ to 2/ a dozen. Prices of salmon are given as Scroll, tall, 11b 14/; flats 15/; halves 9/3. Some houses ask more on account of having been forced to go into the market to buy above the competition rate. Kariuk is regular at 11/. Stocks of all kinds are small. Herrings were scarce yesterday. Some houses were completely out. Two hundred cases of smoked sixteenths sold at 3/; distributing, 3/3 was asked. For halves 10/6 is distributing, qualities was asked, and for quarters 6/ to 7/, according to quantity. The peels were slow. Lemon and orange were quoted at /8, and citron at 1/3. An advance was made in English to 4/9. Tinned fruits remained at the fixed prices.

Metals kept quiet, with little business, and it was not expected that there would be any notable change in heavy lines till business showed an improvement. Ingot tin was a little lower at 1/11. Tinplates were generally quoted at 38/ for parcels. Hollowware was quoted: Kenrick's tinned, 50 per cent. on list, cast iron enamelled 75 per cent. on list, light enamelled irregular.

Caustic soda of 76-77 per cent. was a little firmer, it being found that this strength was in shorter supply than was believed to be the case last week. Also a cable was received, quoting much higher rates early in June. Locally six tons changed hands at £41. For 70-72 per cent. some sellers asked £39. A little of G grade rosin sold at £22/10/ per ton.

Oils were slow. Our cables report a fall of 1/ in the spot prices of pipes of linseed, equal to a little under £2 per gallon. There was a keen inquiry for imported Stockholm tar, on account of the oversea rates having greatly increased. Four hundred drums were procured on the Sydney market at 18/ a drum.

"The country" has not yet commenced to buy cornsacks, and season's deliveries were again quoted yesterday at 8/9 net to mills. Woolpacks were weaker at 23/ to 24/ net. There as no movement in branbags, which were neglected at 8/ net.

SUNDAY TRADING.

"J. E. D." writes:—

I am a grocer, and hold a milk license, which carries no fee. Do I, or do I not, come under the new Sunday Trading Act?

Yes. Hours, 8.30 to 10 a.m., 12.30 to 6.30 p.m., and 8.30 to 10 p.m.

LONDON METAL QUOTATIONS.

The Australian Metal Exchange reports that the London metal (middle) quotations for July 19 were:—

Copper.—Standard, spot, £89/5/ (£1 higher); three months, £87/15/ (10/ higher). Electrolytic, £132 (unchanged) per ton.

Lead.—Soft, foreign, spot, £28/10/ (unchanged); forward, £27/5/ per ton (unchanged).

Spelter.—Spot, £50 (£2 higher); forward, £48 (£2 higher) per ton.

Tin.—Standard, spot, £173/7/6 (5/ lower); three months, £165/12/6 (15/ lower) per ton.

Silver.—Standard, spot, 29¼d, a fall of ½d per oz.

The amount of wool which was manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday was 236 bales.

WHEAT SCHEME

FLOUR MILLERS DISSATISFIED.

The following letter has been addressed to Senator Russell, the Commonwealth Minister in charge of the wheat pool, and Mr. Hazelthorn, a consulting the Victorian Wheat Commission, by the Victorian Millowners' Association:—

"Sir,—At a general meeting of millers held last Thursday great indignation was expressed and serious complaints lodged by millers from all parts of the State at the treatment meted out to them by the administration of the wheat pool. At the inception of the scheme millers were called together by the Government, and the working basis generally outlined for converting the maximum quantity of wheat into the more concentrated form of flour, as it was recognised that this would have the effect of increasing the limited available freight space, which was the crux of the position, to the extent of from 40 per cent. to 50 per cent. of the space so filled with flour instead of wheat. Had the policy of exporting the largest quantity of flour been consistently pursued, and so utilising to the utmost every ton of freight available, many of the stacks of wheat at present lying in the country, seriously deteriorating through exposure to weather and ravages of vermin, would now be on the way to consumers overseas in the shape of flour.

"Millers submit that the present position has been largely brought about owing to the composition of the advisory committee of the Australian Wheat Board, which represents one interest only, viz., that of the shippers of wheat. It may be contended by the shippers that the millers have a representative on the board, but my association wish to point out that his position is purely nominal, as he has been consistently refused all information with regard to the allotment of freight and the general working of the scheme, and has had no voice in the shaping or directing of the conduct of the business of the pool, and is permitted to attend only portions of the meetings, practically in the capacity of a visitor.

"Millers are convinced that it must be apparent to anyone that the present position is against the interests of the wheat pool—that is, the farmers' interests as growers of wheat; the milling industry, which gives considerable employment; and the interests of the dairying, pig, and poultry raising industries throughout the whole Commonwealth, the success of which depends largely on a cheap and plentiful supply of bran and pollard. Millers contend that the time has now arrived for a complete and drastic alteration of the composition of the board, which should, in their opinion, be one farmer, one shipper, one miller, presided over, as at present, by the Ministerial representative. The function of this board would be to formulate the policy for the direction and guidance of the Australian Wheat Board."

EUROPEAN WHEAT REQUIREMENTS.

The prospects are that Europe will require more wheat from abroad during the new cereal season, commencing August 1, than during the preceding 12 months. The "London Grain, Seed, and Oil Reporter" states that in France, according to the Ministry of Agriculture, the area sown with wheat was 12,857,000 acres, against 14,141,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 1,284,000 acres. The average yield per acre is about 19 bushels and, on this basis, the year's autumn promises to be 20 million quarters, against 32 million quarters last year, when the yield per acre was below the average. The figures do not include the land now in the occupation of the enemy. It is quite evident, therefore, that France will be a very large importer of wheat next season. The quantity of foreign wheat delivered for consumption, including that used by the army, has been at the rate, so far this season, of about 16 million quarters per annum, or about 1 million quarters larger than estimated some time ago. Italy, which has been importing foreign wheat at the rate of 6½ million quarters per annum, or 500,000 quarters in excess of early estimates of the Italian requirements, expects to harvest a crop rather larger than last year, but will also have to import freely next season in view of the abnormal conditions prevailing as a result of the war. Both France and Italy are believed to have started the season with fair to liberal stocks, and are believed to hold fair reserves at the present time.

WHEAT LOADINGS AND STACKINGS.

During the week ended July 15 the quantity of wheat despatched from country stations was 179,986 bags, compared with 146,769 bags last week, and 15,357 for the same period last year.

From December 1, 1915, to July 15, there were despatched from country stations 8,198,666 bags, compared with 2,007,618 bags for the same period of last year.

The stacks at country stations, Darling Island, and White Bay on July 15 were 11,775,029 bags, compared with 11,904,113 bags last week, and 21,891 at the same date last year. The number of bags despatched from railway districts during the week ended July 15, and stacks in railway districts on July 15, were:—

District.	No. of bags Stacked	No. of bags Despatched.
Jones	7,26,700	90,850
Goulburn	1,714,003	22,816
Orange	1,665,469	40,239

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

THE WOOL SALES.

LONDON, July 19.

At the wool sales to-day an average selection of merinos and fine crossbreds was offered, and prices for these lines were maintained. Low crossbreds were irregular and in buyers' favour. There were some withdrawals. Prices were:—Gnoolgoma, highest 22d, average 22d; Warenda, 17½; Geraldine, 17½; 18d; Tarndale, 17, 16½; Kaputone 24½, 23½.

Messrs. John Sanderson and Co. have received the following cablegram from their London house, Messrs. Sanderson, Murray, and Co., dated 19th inst.:—"In crossbred the market is irregular. Compared with the closing rates of the preceding sales (June), medium to coarse crossbreds have declined 5 per cent to 7½ per cent.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

NEW-LAID EGGS 1/5.

New-laid eggs were freely offered yesterday at from 1/5 to 1/6 a dozen. One large parcel of over 100 cases, including some of the best known brands, was sold to a pastrycook at 1/5. Supplies from all sources were again extremely heavy, but the demand continued dull as the retailers have not yet reduced prices to the public. Case eggs were offered at 1/4 "straight out." One of the big manufacturers received a parcel of eggs from Brisbane, which he secured at 1/3 f.o.b., but another shipment, which is booked to arrive on Monday next, is costing only 1/3 f.o.b. Duck eggs were offered at the same rates as hen eggs.

There was a strong inquiry for river and railway consignments of poultry, and as the quantity available was small boilers were able to secure very satisfactory prices. Old hens commanded from 5/ to 6/, and young roosters from 3/6 to 7/, according to quality. Fowl Muscovy drakes up to 8/ was paid, but ducks were to be had at from 5/6 to 6/6. English ducks made from 4/ to 5/. Suburban consignments were also in strong demand at firm prices.

Stocks of cheese were sufficient to fill all requirements, but there was no surplus. The proclaimed price was unchanged at /10½ per lb. Bacon cleared well at unaltered levels. The reduction in the price of eggs should be responsible for a still further improvement in the demand.

There was no change in the local butter market. Monday's reduction of 10/ per cwt in the price of choicest butter in Melbourne has had very little effect on the demand. Fresh Victorian butter is selling readily, but is still in very light supply. Imported butters are very quiet. It is reported that the 2000 boxes landed in Melbourne on behalf of the Queensland Government have been put into cool stores unsold. A further 8000 boxes are offering. Secondary grades are still dragging, but in the cheaper lines a moderate speculative business is said to have been done on London reports. The Victorian production shows a further slight increase.

SPORTING.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

One of Octoba's legs having weakened, it was decided recently not to persevere further with him, and his trainer, Joe Burton, has acquired him from his importer, Mr. Francis Foy. He is to be used as a stud horse at Cookamidgera. Octoba was purchased by Mr. Foy during his last visit to England. Mr. Foy was in hopes he could be trained again, as he was a horse of excellent class in England; a fact which he proved by winning the Liverpool St. Leger—beating the English St. Leger winner, Knight Hawk—and in a mile and a half race at Newmarket he defeated Kiltoi, who, later on, was sent to India, where he won the Viceroy's Cup. Octoba is a very powerful and perfectly built racehorse, and is as kind as a kitten. He is a three-parts brother to Sands of the Orient, by Rock Sand from Octorcon, a sister in blood to the great Ormonde.

Burton is treating The Christian Brother to the mildest work, but is moving Mr. Victor Foy's horse Bandolliero along, and keeping him in forward buckle for the suburban meetings. Bandolliero did some strong pacing yesterday morning on the maggie grass track, which, owing to the previous day's rain, was somewhat heavy and slow. Coat o' Mail ran nine furlongs on it in 2m 6s, and Messrs. Macarthur's English horse Polycrates, who is trained by R. O'Connor, worked over a mile in 1m 55⅘s, a distance which Flighting and Lady Minnie covered in 1m 48⅘s. Rouen was content with five furlongs in 1m 10s.

Migandra was not extended to run six furlongs in 1m 26⅘. Robert the Bruce and Gadabout (imp.) did some three-quarter pacing, and Rushford (imp.) went a mile at a trifle better than even time. Gigandra was also bowling along at a fair pace, and five furlongs in 1m 9s was run by Zuland and Bee. Silent Wave and Reval kept company over a mile in 1m 50s; Woorak worked easily, and Redfern did some three-quarter pacing. Mountain Bard and Long Steel accounted for six furlongs in 1m 24s, and among the others who were out for useful or easy pacing work were Carlita, Common Law, Royal Rufus, Nombi, Hopoast, Cagou, Cettgne, First Lesson, Nariyo, Giru, Sir Vive, Cansone, Hopfield, St. Rosaline, Galton Queen, Ulva's Isle, Eydlan, Turee, Star, Clydeside, Llanishen, Charleville, and the Caulfield Cup favourite Lingle.

Mr. Hobbs worked Corrie and Peg over a mile in 1m 55s, and gave Deltonio some practice over the schooling hurdles. Corrie went over the first three, but was then put over jumped and outpaced. Deltonio did the next turn alone. He is a very fast jumper. Quirindi was also schooled, and showed a little improvement on his previous efforts. Next Monday the team of New Zealanders at Randwick, presided over by Mr. Hobbs, will be increased by Kilboy, a colt by Kilbroney, owned by his breeder, Mr. J. B. Reid. Kilboy is engaged in the Derby, a race for which he is to be specially prepared. The Auckland trainer Quinlivan is also expected at Randwick with Mr. Stead's crack, Eligible, and several others.

FACTS CONDENSED.
IT IS SAID THAT A CERTAIN TRIBE OF INDIANS HAS A RULE THAT DURING ITS DEBATES A MEMBER OF COUNCIL MAY SPEAK ONLY DURING THE SPACE OF TIME HE CAN STAND ON ONE FOOT. THIS PLAN MIGHT BE TRIED IN A CERTAIN HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY NOT A HUNDRED MILES FROM SYDNEY. IT CERTAINLY WOULD CONCENTRATE AND CONDENSE MATTERS.

CONCENTRATING AND CONDENSING THE NEWS OF "THE PIAZZA" FOR THIS DAY'S DATE, WE CALL ATTENTION TO LADIES' COSTUMES AND COATS, LADIES' WOVEN UNDERWEAR, AND LADIES' FOOTWEAR. QUALITIES AND PRICES VERY SPECIAL.
